"As a leading provider of printing solutions and mobile communications, Marvell is continuously investing in ways to expand our solutions," said Mark Montierth, VP of Printing and Custom Solutions at Marvell. "By joining the Mopria Alliance, Marvell is playing an integral role in innovating beyond basic printing functions and working to deliver a seamless mobile printing experience for consumers."

"Given the expected increase in mobile device usage in the next few years, the Mopria Alliance is dedicated to advancing mobile printing from smartphones, tablets and other mobile devices to allow consumers to conveniently print wherever, whenever," said Emily Ketchen Vice Chairman, Mopria Alliance and Vice President, Worldwide Integrated Marketing and Communications, Hewlett-Packard.

The Mopria Alliance aims to create an easier and more accessible user experience for mobile printing by promoting collaboration between brands and eliminating the need for consumers to download multiple print drivers. The Alliance influences the development and adoption of standards for the mobile printing industry and provides tools for developers to incorporate print capabilities into mobile applications. Through the Mopria Alliance, members can better serve their customers and ensure printing is universally compatible from any mobile device to any printer.

About the Mopria Alliance:

The Mopria Alliance is a non-profit membership organization of leading global technology companies with the shared goal of providing intuitively simple wireless printing from smartphones, tablets and other mobile devices. The Mopria Alliance's goal is to bring together the entire industry to drive selected standards adoption, support mobile software application providers to deploy print functionality in their applications, develop experience guidelines in the interaction of mobile and print devices, certify products which will carry the Mopria logo and educate consumers and business customers about the ability to easily print from mobile devices. Find out more about the Mopria Alliance at www.mopria.org.
