

CV Sciences, Inc. Hosts Lunch Seminar at National University of Natural Medicine 2017 Medical Cannabis Conference

Company Enters its Second Year Sponsoring Continuing Education for University Students, Alumni, and Local Practitioners Interested in Learning More about Cannabis-Related Research and Methodologies

LAS VEGAS, NV -- (Marketwired) -- 07/25/17 -- CV Sciences, Inc., (OTCQB: CVSI) (the "Company," "CV Sciences," "our" or "we"), preeminent supplier and manufacturer of hemp-derived cannabidiol \(CBD\) oil bulk and consumer products, today announced that it will be exhibiting and presenting at the National University of Natural Medicine \(NUNM\)'s 2017 Medical Cannabis Conference in Academic Building Room 310 on July 29-30, 2017, in Portland, Oregon as Lead Sponsor.

NUNM conference attendees are invited to a very special lunch lecture on stress, adrenal health, and hemp-derived CBD, hosted by CV Sciences' Medical Advisor and renowned naturopathic physician, Dr. Aimée Shunney, on July 30th, 2017 held from 12:30pm to 2pm. Dr. Shunney will provide an engaging review of the emerging evidence on the role of hemp-derived CBD and phytocannabinoids to support healthy adrenal function throughout life. Attendees will also discover the interactions of CBD and the human endocannabinoid system as it relates to human health, as well as the potential clinical applications for primary care, safety and plant-drug interaction data, and quality, sourcing, and dosing.

"As a proud alum from NUNM and a Medical Advisor to CV Sciences, I am honored and excited to have the opportunity to share my clinical experience with hemp-derived CBD at the NUNM Cannabis Conference. Being a naturopathic physician for 16 years, I have a passion for exploring new modalities in my treatment protocols to address stress resilience for day to day quality of life as well as chronic disease risk reduction," Dr Shunney explains. "The addition of hemp-derived CBD to my toolbox has literally transformed my ability to help my patients manage the effects of stress, stabilize mood, and sleep better."

Attendees are also encouraged to stop by the CV Sciences booth to learn more about its industry-leading supplement line, PlusCBD Oil™, where they can receive free samples, educational tools and meet with Dr. Shunney and the CV Sciences team.
