For 5th Consecutive Year, Ethan Allen Upholstery Plant Recognized as Environmentally & Socially Responsible

DANBURY, Conn., Feb. 29, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- For the fifth year in a row, the Mexican Center for Corporate Philanthropy and the Alliance for Corporate Social Responsibility has recognized Ethan Allen's upholstery manufacturing operations in Silao, Guanajuato, Mexico, as "Empresa Socialmente Responsable" (Environmentally and Socially Responsible).

The recognition is awarded to companies that implement socially responsible management and sustainability commitments, thus positioning themselves as leaders within Latin America's business environment. "This achievement and the model set for the business sector in Mexico are reasons for celebration," wrote Prof. María Guadalupe Hernández Balderas, the organization's General Director.

Ethan Allen's upholstery operation in Silao offers nutritious meals plus transportation to and from work for all its associates. Staffed by a doctor and a team of nurses, an on-site clinic provides care for associates, offering vaccines and dispensing over-the-counter medications.

Responding to the recognition, Ethan Allen Chairman, President and CEO Farooq Kathwari noted "We're proud of our commitment to manufacturing in North America, where about 75% of our products are made. The efforts of our Silao associates reflect our enterprise-wide commitment to sustainability and social responsibility."
