Created by Terán TBWA, the 60-second and 20-second video advertisements, radio commercials, OOH media and social content highlight Betterware de Mexico's vast array of easy to use and accessible products for organization and practicality. Both television spots support the Company's efforts to help customers "find the solution" with Betterware products. The videos feature women, men, couples and children using everyday products around the home, including shoe racks, closet organizers, space savers, inventive kitchen cleaning products and more.

"We're thrilled to start off the year by launching our biggest campaign yet," said Andres Campos, Chief Executive Officer. "The campaign highlights what our brand is all about, and we're excited to share our values and product solutions for the home with more families and individuals across Mexico through these advertisements. Overall, we expect the new marketing campaign to expand our customer base as we showcase how consumers can benefit from our line of products."

The campaign will run across national Mexican television, radio, billboards, subway and bus stations, and social media. The two video advertisements were produced in Spanish, but will feature English subtitles where possible to reach a broader audience. An estimated 65 million consumers are expected to interact with the campaign. All products are available on Betterware's newly launched direct-to-consumer website: www.betterware.com.mx.
