

Michaels Takes Pumpkins Beyond The Patch For Halloween

Blogger challenge, Great Pumpkin Event and custom carving take jack-o'-lanterns to next level

IRVING, Texas, Sept. 26, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Of all the Halloween traditions, pumpkin carving is one of the most popular, and this year, Michaels is taking the beloved annual ritual up a notch with simple, affordable online project ideas, new products and in-store events.

The retailer kicked off the season with The Great Pumpkin Challenge, sending carveable craft pumpkins to 30 top DIY lifestyle blogs, including A Night Owl, U Create and Lil Luna, and asking the bloggers to reimagine ways to use the versatile foam gourds. The results are displayed on Michaels' Halloween board on Pinterest, with ideas ranging from planters, terrariums and candleholders to pumpkin purses, centerpieces and even a whole spooky cemetery.

"Everyone loves a classic jack-o'-lantern, but we wanted to offer our customers a selection of fun ideas for something different this year," said Michaels Director Digital & Social Marketing Robert Freeman. "Our blogger friends came up with some amazing pumpkins that we hope will inspire people to take their Halloween celebration to a whole new level."

Kids can get into the Halloween spirit with the Michaels Great Pumpkin Event in all U.S. and Canada stores Saturday, Oct. 5, from 1-3 p.m. Each child will receive a 9" carveable pumpkin and can create a unique design that will last for years to come. Cost is $6, and a free face painter will also be on hand at each event.

Customers can leave the carving to Michaels, and order a custom craft pumpkin that can be personalized with any design, including the family name or house number, that can be used again and again. Orders placed by Oct. 13 will be ready in time for trick-or-treat. More information is available at www.michaels.com/custom-carved-pumpkins.

Michaels also has everything needed to make one-of-a-kind DIY costumes, haunting home and yard decorations and homemade Halloween treats. For Halloween inspiration, ideas and instructions, go to Michaels.com and Michaels' Halloween Pinterest boards.
