Paysafe's expertise lies in helping businesses and consumers make seamless, secure transactions worldwide, with offerings including digital wallets, prepaid solutions, and online payment processing. Meanwhile, Endava brings a wide range of technology and business services to the partnership, spanning engineering optimisation, AI solutions and programme delivery excellence, as well as extensive experience in the payments space. A joint steering committee will provide governance and oversight of service performance, strategic alignment, and continuous improvement under the partnership.

"By combining Paysafe's global payments expertise with Endava's AI-driven engineering, we hope to set a new standard for payments and community experience," said Bob Legters, Chief Product Officer at Paysafe. "We'll be able to deliver quicker rollouts, higher conversion and richer digital experiences for our partners and for the end user."

"Payments have always been about trust and connection - two qualities that are now being redefined through technology," added Alastair Lukies CBE, Chief Engagement Officer, Endava. "Our partnership with Paysafe brings together world-class payments infrastructure and next-generation engineering to create smarter, more intuitive ways for people and businesses to engage. It's a powerful step forward in making every transaction simpler, faster and more meaningful."
