Weave Launches Patient Engagement Platform Specifically for Multi-Location Businesses

LEHI, Utah, Feb. 8, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Weave, the complete business toolbox for service-based businesses and one of the fastest-growing companies in tech, today announced Weave Unify, a sophisticated patient engagement and communication platform created specifically for multi-location service businesses.

Weave Unify empowers businesses with multiple locations to leverage each others' patient bases to streamline operations.

Weave Unify empowers healthcare businesses with multiple locations to leverage each others' patient bases, schedules, and call-handling staff to streamline operations, improve communications, increase revenue, and provide a modernized and personalized patient experience across the entire practice.

"It's complex for healthcare practices to efficiently communicate, attract, and engage with their patients, and this becomes even more complicated when a business operates multiple practices across various office locations," said Roy Banks, CEO at Weave. "Weave Unify enables multi-location businesses to leverage each other's staff and strengths to help grow the organization more quickly and efficiently, provide better brand experiences, all while reducing operational costs."

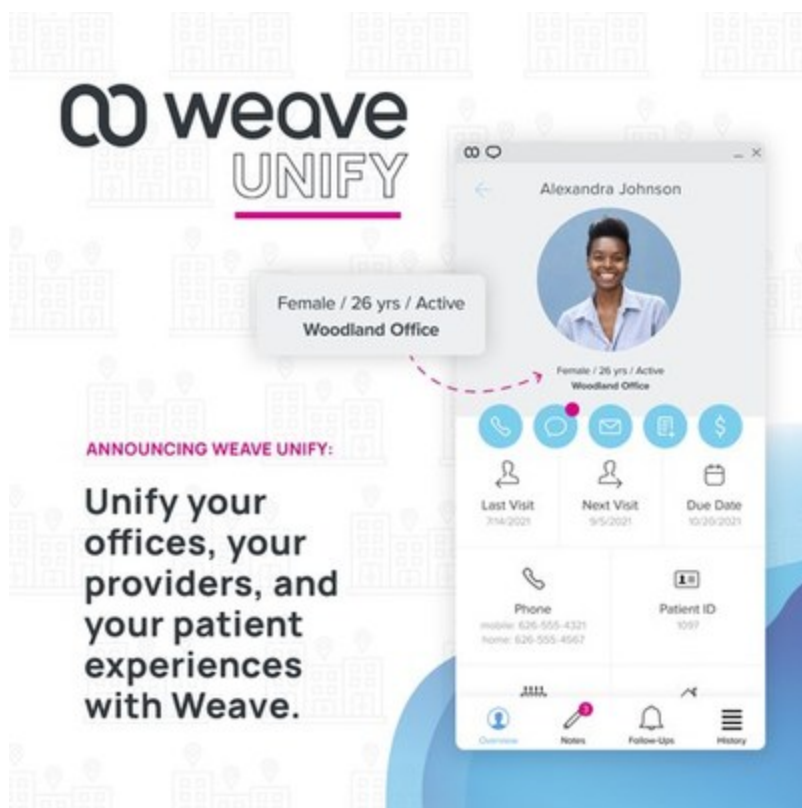

According to a recent survey of more than 300 multi-location healthcare business owners and operators, multi-location practices that frequently cross-schedule patients are 63% more likely to always have a full schedule, helping to maximize each healthcare professional's time.

Weave is hosting a webinar on February 11 with Dr. Eric Roman, a practicing dentist who built and sold two multi-location dental service organizations (DSOs), on the ways healthcare businesses should be rethinking their growth and communication strategy in 2021.

Weave Unify is the latest addition to Weave's growing set of solutions for healthcare businesses, which includes solutions for payment processing, email marketing, and patient experience and communications to make healthcare practices more efficient and profitable.
