Dr. Christopher Capelli, president and CEO of Soliton, said, "We are honored to ring the Nasdaq closing bell in celebration of our recent IPO. We are excited about the opportunities ahead in the burgeoning tattoo removal market for our leading-edge Rapid Acoustic Pulse ("RAP") technology, which is capable of delivering treatment for tattoo removal in a more efficient, less painful and cost saving manner. In ongoing animal studies, a new version of the Company's acoustic pulse technology is also demonstrating real potential in the reduction of cellulite. We believe there are significant opportunities in these markets as well. I would like to thank the entire Soliton team for their tireless efforts and for the confidence of our shareholders as we work to execute on our strategic growth plan."

The ceremony will take place at the Nasdaq MarketSite, 4 Times Square, 43rd and Broadway, in New York.

About Soliton, Inc.

Soliton, Inc. is a medical device company with a novel and proprietary platform technology licensed from MD Anderson. The Company's first planned commercial product is designed to use rapid pulses of designed acoustic shockwaves in conjunction with existing lasers to accelerate the removal of unwanted tattoos (RAP device). In addition, higher energy versions of acoustic pulse devices are in early stages of development for potential stand-alone treatment of cellulite and other indications. Both products are investigational and are not available for sale in the United States.
