PITTSBURGH, April 15, 2020 – The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc. (NYSE: PNC) today reported:

	For the quarter
	1Q20	4Q19	1Q19
Net income $ millions	$915	$1,381	$1,271

“In these unprecedented times that we are collectively experiencing, PNC remains squarely focused on meeting the needs of our customers and addressing the specific challenges of those facing hardship due to the coronavirus pandemic. We are continuing our legacy of supporting the communities we serve, committing $30 million to relief programs, while implementing broad measures to keep our employees safe, with minimal disruption to our customers. PNC also is supporting the broader financial system at a critical time and fulfilling an important role, along with other banks, by serving as facilitator of government stimulus programs. Our results for the first quarter were good, but the extraordinary changes in the economic backdrop occurring in March and the implications of the broad-based response to the COVID-19 outbreak had a material impact on our provision for credit losses. With our strong capital and liquidity and leading technology, we will continue to serve our stakeholders while navigating the current challenges.”

Bill Demchak, PNC Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer

Economic Environment

The COVID-19 outbreak and public health response to contain it have resulted in recessionary economic and financial market conditions as of the end of the first quarter that did not exist at the beginning of the quarter. During March 2020 in response, the Federal Reserve reduced the federal funds rate 1.5 percentage points to .00 to .25 percent. The recession that has started in the U.S. as a result of government-mandated closures and stay at home orders is significantly impacting the U.S. labor market, consumer spending and business investment. As a result, the U.S. government enacted the CARES Act, the largest economic stimulus package in the nation’s history in an effort to lessen the impact of COVID-19 on consumers and businesses.

Provision for credit losses was $914 million in the first quarter of 2020, an increase of $693 million compared with the fourth quarter of 2019. PNC adopted the CECL accounting standard effective January 1, 2020 and the reasonable and supportable forecasts of future macroeconomic scenarios used in the estimation of expected credit losses were materially affected by the adverse economic impact of COVID-19, resulting in a significant increase in the provision. Loan portfolio growth also contributed to higher reserve levels. Provision for credit losses was $506 million for the commercial portfolio, $399 million for the consumer portfolio and $9 million for other assets and securities.

Net loan charge-offs for the first quarter of 2020 increased slightly by $3 million compared with the fourth quarter as increases in commercial loan, credit card and auto loan charge-offs were partially offset by higher recoveries. Compared with first quarter 2019, net loan charge-offs increased $76 million due to higher commercial net charge-offs of $47 million and higher consumer net charge-offs of $29 million. Net charge-offs were .35 percent of average loans on an annualized basis for both the first quarter of 2020 and fourth quarter of 2019 and .24 percent for the first quarter of 2019.

Nonperforming assets at March 31, 2020 were essentially stable with December 31, 2019. Higher nonperforming loans in the commercial and auto portfolios were partially offset by lower nonperforming home equity and residential mortgage loans. Nonperforming assets decreased $30 million compared with March 31, 2019 due to lower nonperforming home equity and residential mortgage loans and lower other real estate owned and foreclosed assets partially offset by higher nonperforming commercial and auto loans. Nonperforming assets to total assets were .39 percent at March 31, 2020, .43 percent at December 31, 2019 and .45 percent at March 31, 2019.

Overall delinquencies at March 31, 2020 decreased $21 million, or 1 percent, compared with December 31, 2019. Loans past due 30 to 59 days increased $27 million driven by residential mortgage loans. Loans past due 60 to 89 days increased $3 million and loans past due 90 days or more decreased $51 million. Overall delinquencies at March 31, 2020 increased $47 million, or 3 percent, compared with March 31, 2019 reflecting higher auto and credit card past due loans. Loans past due 30 to 59 days increased $54 million, loans past due 60 to 89 days increased $49 million and loans past due 90 days or more decreased $56 million.

The allowance for credit losses for loans and leases and off-balance sheet credit exposures was $4.4 billion at March 31, 2020. This reflects the January 1, 2020 transition adjustment of $.6 billion for adoption of the CECL accounting standard that was added to the December 31, 2019 allowance for loan and lease losses and off-balance sheet credit exposures of $3.1 billion. At March 31, 2020, the allowance for credit losses for loans and leases and off-balance sheet credit exposures to total loans was 1.66 percent.

Retail Banking earnings for the first quarter of 2020 decreased compared to the fourth and first quarters of 2019. Noninterest income increased in both comparisons due to higher residential mortgage revenue attributable to a higher benefit from residential mortgage servicing rights valuation, net of economic hedge, and increased loan sales revenue. Additionally, noninterest income increased due to the impact of negative derivative fair value adjustments related to Visa Class B common shares in the fourth and first quarters of 2019. Compared with the fourth quarter, these increases were partially offset by seasonal declines in service charges on deposits and consumer services, including merchant services and debit card fees, and fees waived related to the economic impact of COVID-19. In the comparison with first quarter 2019, growth in consumer services primarily attributable to debit card and brokerage fees contributed to the increase in noninterest income. Provision for credit losses for the first quarter of 2020, which was calculated under the CECL accounting standard, increased in both comparisons primarily due to the significant economic impact of COVID-19 and loan growth. Noninterest expense increased in both comparisons reflecting higher customer-related transaction costs and personnel expense and, compared with first quarter 2019, higher equipment costs and ATM expense resulting from enhanced checking product benefits.

- Average loans increased 2 percent compared with the fourth quarter and 8 percent compared with the first quarter of 2019 due to growth in residential mortgage, auto and credit card loans partially offset by lower education loans driven by continued runoff in the government guaranteed education loan portfolio.

- Average deposits increased 1 percent compared with the fourth quarter and 5 percent compared with first quarter 2019 due to increases in savings and demand deposits partially offset by lower money market deposits reflecting a shift to relationship-based savings products.
- Net loan charge-offs were $166 million for the first quarter of 2020 compared with $154 million in the fourth quarter of 2019 and $132 million in the first quarter of 2019.
- Residential mortgage loan origination volume was $3.2 billion for the first quarter of 2020 compared with $3.5 billion for the fourth quarter of 2019 and $1.7 billion for the first quarter of 2019. Approximately 36 percent of first quarter 2020 volume was for home purchase transactions compared with 40 percent and 56 percent for the fourth and first quarters of 2019, respectively.
- The third party residential mortgage servicing portfolio was $118 billion at March 31, 2020 compared with $120 billion at December 31, 2019 and $123 billion at March 31, 2019. Residential mortgage loan servicing acquisitions were $2 billion for first quarter 2020 compared with $3 billion for the fourth quarter of 2019 and $1 billion for the first quarter of 2019.
- Approximately 71 percent of consumer customers used non-teller channels for the majority of their transactions during the first quarter of 2020 and the fourth quarter of 2019 compared with 68 percent in the first quarter of 2019.
- Deposit transactions via ATM and mobile channels were 59 percent of total deposit transactions in the first quarter of 2020 compared with 58 percent in the fourth quarter of 2019 and 57 percent in the first quarter of 2019.

Corporate & Institutional Banking earnings for the first quarter of 2020 decreased compared to both the fourth and first quarters of 2019. Noninterest income increased in both comparisons primarily due to higher capital markets-related revenue and higher revenue from commercial mortgage banking activities. Higher treasury management product revenue also contributed to the increase compared with the first quarter of 2019. Provision for credit losses in the first quarter of 2020, which was calculated under the CECL accounting standard, increased in both comparisons primarily due to the significant economic impact of COVID-19 and portfolio growth, including new loans and higher utilization. Noninterest expense increased compared with the first quarter of 2019 largely due to investments in strategic initiatives and variable costs associated with increased business activity.

- Average loans increased 2 percent compared with the fourth quarter of 2019 and 6 percent compared with the first quarter of 2019 due to broad growth across PNC's corporate banking, business credit and real estate businesses, including higher utilization of loan commitments primarily driven by the economic impact of COVID-19.

- Average deposits were largely unchanged from the fourth quarter reflecting lower than usual seasonal declines offset by liquidity maintained by customers due to the economic impact of COVID-19. Average deposits increased 11 percent over the first quarter of 2019.
- Net loan charge-offs were $50 million in the first quarter of 2020 compared with $47 million in the fourth quarter of 2019 and $5 million in the first quarter of 2019.

Asset Management Group earnings for the first quarter of 2020 decreased compared with the fourth quarter of 2019 and increased compared with the first quarter of 2019. Noninterest income decreased compared with the fourth quarter as a result of a gain on the sale of proprietary mutual funds in the fourth quarter and the impact of lower average equity markets. Noninterest income decreased compared with first quarter 2019 due to lower revenue related to the 2019 sales of the retirement recordkeeping business and proprietary mutual funds. Noninterest expense decreased in both comparisons due to the impact of the 2019 divestitures.

Client assets under administration at March 31, 2020 included discretionary client assets under management of $136 billion and nondiscretionary client assets under administration of $128 billion. Discretionary client assets under management decreased $18 billion compared with December 31, 2019 and $22 billion compared with March 31, 2019 primarily driven by declines in the equity markets, and the fourth quarter sale of proprietary mutual funds in the March 31, 2019 comparison.

- (a) Net interest margin is the total yield on interest-earning assets minus the total rate on interest-bearing liabilities and includes the benefit from use of noninterest-bearing sources. To provide more meaningful comparisons of net interest margins, we use net interest income on a taxable-equivalent basis in calculating average yields used in the calculation of net interest margin by increasing the interest income earned on tax-exempt assets to make it fully equivalent to interest income earned on taxable investments. This adjustment is not permitted under generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) in the Consolidated Income Statement. The taxable-equivalent adjustments to net interest income for the three months ended March 31, 2020, December 31, 2019 and March 31, 2019 were $22 million, $23 million and $27 million, respectively.
- (b) Calculated as noninterest expense divided by total revenue.
- (c) Our business information is presented based on our internal management reporting practices. Net interest income in business segment results reflect PNC's internal funds transfer pricing methodology. Assets receive a funding charge and liabilities and capital receive a funding credit based on a transfer pricing methodology that incorporates product repricing characteristics, tenor and other factors.
- (d) Includes earnings and gains or losses related to PNC's equity investment in BlackRock and residual activities that do not meet the criteria for disclosure as a separate reportable business. We provide additional information on these activities in our Form 10-K and Form 10-Q filings with the SEC.

The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc.Consolidated Financial Highlights (Unaudited)*CAPITAL RATIOS

As of January 1, 2020, the 2019 Tailoring Rules became effective for PNC. The most significant changes involve the election to exclude specific accumulated other comprehensive income (AOCI) items from common equity Tier 1 capital and higher thresholds used to calculate common equity Tier 1 capital deductions. Effective January 1, 2020, PNC must deduct from common equity Tier 1 capital (net of associated deferred tax liabilities) investments in unconsolidated financial institutions (for PNC, primarily BlackRock), mortgage servicing rights and deferred tax assets to the extent such items individually exceed 25% of the institution's adjusted common equity Tier 1 capital.

Under the Basel III rules applicable to PNC during 2019, significant common stock investments in unconsolidated financial institutions (for PNC, primarily BlackRock), mortgage servicing rights and deferred tax assets were deducted from common equity Tier 1 capital (net of associated deferred tax liabilities) to the extent they individually exceed 10%, or in the aggregate exceed 15%, of the institution's adjusted common equity Tier 1 capital. Also, PNC's Basel III regulatory capital during 2019 included AOCI related to securities currently, and those transferred from, available for sale, as well as pension and other postretirement plans.

PNC's regulatory risk-based capital ratios in 2020 and 2019 are both calculated using the standardized approach for determining risk-weighted assets. Under the standardized approach for determining credit risk-weighted assets, exposures are generally assigned a pre-defined risk weight. Exposures to high volatility commercial real estate, past due exposures and equity exposures are generally subject to higher risk weights than other types of exposures.

Effective for March 31, 2020, regulators issued an interim final rule revising the optional transition provisions that would allow banks that have adopted the Current Expected Credit Loss (CECL) standard to delay for two years CECL's full impact on regulatory capital, relative to the incurred loss methodology's impact on regulatory capital, followed by a three year transition period. PNC elected to adopt this optional transition provision effective for March 31, 2020. For an estimate of results reflecting the optional transition provisions see the March 31, 2020 ratio. For the full impact of PNC's adoption of CECL, which excludes the benefits of phase-ins, see the March 31, 2020 (Fully Implemented) estimate presented in the table below.

We also provide additional information below regarding PNC's 2019 Basel III Common equity Tier 1 capital ratios.

Our Basel III capital ratios may be impacted by changes to the regulatory capital rules and additional regulatory guidance or analysis.

We believe that this ratio is a useful tool to assess the impact to our capital position after adoption of the 2019 Tailoring Rules.

(e) Based on the Tailoring Rules, effective January 1, 2020 for PNC, the limit for threshold deductions increased, resulting in no deduction as of March 31, 2020.

(f) Based on the Tailoring Rules effective January 1, 2020, PNC elected to opt-out of the inclusion of accumulated other comprehensive income in regulatory capital.

(g) Basel III standardized approach risk-weighted assets are based on the Basel III standardized approach rules and include credit and market risk-weighted assets.

(h) Basel III advanced approaches risk-weighted assets in 2019 were based on the Basel III advanced approaches rules, and include credit, market and operational risk-weighted assets. Based on the Tailoring Rules effective January 1, 2020, PNC is no longer required to report advanced approaches risk-weighted assets.

We believe this non-GAAP measure serves as a useful tool to help evaluate the strength and discipline of a company's capital management strategies and as an additional, conservative measure of total company value.

Forward-looking statements are necessarily subject to numerous assumptions, risks and uncertainties, which change over time. Future events or circumstances may change our outlook and may also affect the nature of the assumptions, risks and uncertainties to which our forward-looking statements are subject. Forward-looking statements speak only as of the date made. We do not assume any duty and do not undertake to update forward-looking statements. Actual results or future events could differ, possibly materially, from those anticipated in forward-looking statements, as well as from historical performance. As a result, we caution against placing undue reliance on any forward-looking statements.

Our forward-looking statements are subject to the following principal risks and uncertainties.

- Our businesses, financial results and balance sheet values are affected by business and economic conditions, including the following:
 - Changes in interest rates and valuations in debt, equity and other financial markets.
 - Disruptions in the U.S. and global financial markets.
 - Actions by the Federal Reserve Board, U.S. Treasury and other government agencies, including those that impact money supply and market interest rates.
 - Changes in customer behavior due to changing business and economic conditions or legislative or regulatory initiatives.
 - Changes in customers’, suppliers’ and other counterparties’ performance and creditworthiness.
 - Impacts of tariffs and other trade policies of the U.S. and its global trading partners.
 - The length and extent of economic contraction as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.
 - Commodity price volatility.
- Our forward-looking financial statements are subject to the risk that economic and financial market conditions will be substantially different than those we are currently expecting and do not take into account potential legal and regulatory contingencies. These statements are based on our views that:
 - PNC’s baseline economic forecast is for a severe but short recession in the first half of 2020. Restrictions on movement because of the COVID-19 pandemic have led to a huge drop in consumer spending and a steep drop in output as many workers are unable to get to their jobs. PNC expects a significant contraction in U.S. real GDP and steep job losses over the next few months and a large increase in the unemployment rate in 2020.
 - In the baseline forecast, economic growth resumes in the third quarter as consumers start to spend again. Fiscal stimulus and extremely low interest rates support the recovery. Real GDP surpasses its pre-recession peak in mid-2021, and growth is well above its long-term trend through mid-2022.
 - The baseline forecast assumes that the Federal Open Market Committee keeps the federal funds rate in its current range of 0.00 to 0.25 percent throughout 2020 and into 2021.
- Given the many unknowns and risks being heavily weighted to the downside, our forward-looking statements are subject to the risk that conditions will be substantially different than we are currently expecting. If efforts to contain COVID-19 are unsuccessful and restrictions on movement last into the third quarter or beyond, the recession would be much longer and much more severe. Ineffective fiscal stimulus, or an extended delay in implementing it, are also major downside risks. The deeper the recession is, and the longer it lasts, the more it will damage consumer fundamentals and sentiment. This could both prolong the recession, and/or make any recovery weaker. Similarly, the recession could damage business fundamentals. And an extended global recession due to COVID-19 would weaken the U.S. recovery. As a result, the outbreak and its consequences, including responsive measures to manage it, have had and are likely to continue to have an adverse effect, possibly materially, on our business and financial performance by adversely affecting, possibly materially, the demand and profitability of our products and services, the valuation of assets and our ability to meet the needs of our customers.
- PNC's ability to take certain capital actions, including returning capital to shareholders, is subject to PNC meeting or exceeding a stress capital buffer established by the Federal Reserve Board as part of PNC's comprehensive capital plan for the applicable period in connection with the Federal Reserve Board's Comprehensive Capital Analysis and Review (CCAR) process.

- PNC's regulatory capital ratios in the future will depend on, among other things, the company's financial performance, the scope and terms of final capital regulations then in effect and management actions affecting the composition of PNC's balance sheet. In addition, PNC's ability to determine, evaluate and forecast regulatory capital ratios, and to take actions (such as capital distributions) based on actual or forecasted capital ratios, will be dependent at least in part on the development, validation and regulatory review of related models.
- Legal and regulatory developments could have an impact on our ability to operate our businesses, financial condition, results of operations, competitive position, reputation, or pursuit of attractive acquisition opportunities. Reputational impacts could affect matters such as business generation and retention, liquidity, funding, and ability to attract and retain management. These developments could include:
 - Changes to laws and regulations, including changes affecting oversight of the financial services industry, consumer protection, bank capital and liquidity standards, pension, bankruptcy and other industry aspects, and changes in accounting policies and principles.
 - Unfavorable resolution of legal proceedings or other claims and regulatory and other governmental investigations or other inquiries. These matters may result in monetary judgments or settlements or other remedies, including fines, penalties, restitution or alterations in our business practices, and in additional expenses and collateral costs, and may cause reputational harm to PNC.
 - Results of the regulatory examination and supervision process, including our failure to satisfy requirements of agreements with governmental agencies.
 - Impact on business and operating results of any costs associated with obtaining rights in intellectual property claimed by others and of adequacy of our intellectual property protection in general.
- Business and operating results are affected by our ability to identify and effectively manage risks inherent in our businesses, including, where appropriate, through effective use of systems and controls, third-party insurance, derivatives, and capital management techniques, and to meet evolving regulatory capital and liquidity standards.
- Business and operating results also include impacts relating to our equity interest in BlackRock, Inc. and rely to a significant extent on information provided to us by BlackRock. Risks and uncertainties that could affect BlackRock are discussed in more detail by BlackRock in its SEC filings.
- We grow our business in part through acquisitions and new strategic initiatives. Risks and uncertainties include those presented by the nature of the business acquired and strategic initiative, including in some cases those associated with our entry into new businesses or new geographic or other markets and risks resulting from our inexperience in those new areas, as well as risks and uncertainties related to the acquisition transactions themselves, regulatory issues, and the integration of the acquired businesses into PNC after closing.
- Competition can have an impact on customer acquisition, growth and retention and on credit spreads and product pricing, which can affect market share, deposits and revenues. Our ability to anticipate and respond to technological changes can also impact our ability to respond to customer needs and meet competitive demands.
- Business and operating results can also be affected by widespread natural and other disasters, pandemics, dislocations, terrorist activities, system failures, security breaches, cyberattacks or international hostilities through impacts on the economy and financial markets generally or on us or our counterparties specifically.

We provide greater detail regarding these as well as other factors in our 2019 Form 10-K, including in the Risk Factors and Risk Management sections and the Legal Proceedings and Commitments Notes of the Notes To Consolidated Financial Statements in that report, and in our subsequent SEC filings. In particular, our forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties related to the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting governmental and societal responses. Our forward-looking statements may also be subject to other risks and uncertainties, including those we may discuss elsewhere in this news release or in our SEC filings, accessible on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov and on our corporate website at www.pnc.com/secfilings.
