Ingram Micro and Promark Expand GSA Schedule; Adds Several Vendors Including Panasonic

World's Leading Technology Distributor Signs New GSA Vendor Contracts; Enables Channel Partners to Deliver Best-in-Class Solutions and Services to Public Sector

SANTA ANA, CA -- (Marketwired) -- 09/17/13 -- Building on the success of its strategic acquisition, Ingram Micro Inc. (NYSE: IM), the world's largest wholesale technology distributor and a global leader in IT supply-chain, mobile device lifecycle services and logistics solutions, today announced the addition of several new vendors to Promark's General Services Administration (GSA) schedule including Panasonic, Falconstor, Jabra and Whiptail.

The recent GSA schedule additions focus on in-demand technology categories such as communications, data protection, networking, ruggedized computing, storage and virtualization. Earlier this year, Ingram Micro announced Cisco's portfolio of channel-friendly technology products and solutions were now featured as part of Promark's GSA schedule. The best-in-class technology distributor plans to add more vendors to Promark's GSA schedule in 2013, and will continue to make strategic investments that will further differentiate its services, out-execute competitors and help channel partners market, sell and support IT solutions that meet the business needs of the public sector.

"Ingram Micro and Promark offer a compelling value proposition that technology vendors and channel partners rely on to grow their business, expand their reach and move this industry forward," says Michael Humke, executive director of U.S. public sector and vertical markets, Ingram Micro. "With the federal buying season underway, we're pleased to expand our portfolio and further empower our channel partners to proactively identify and address the IT business needs of organizations and agencies within the state, local, education (SLED) and federal markets."

Ingram Micro acquired Promark, a value-added distributor (VAD) with a core technology focus on data storage, data management and electronic document imaging products and services, in 2012, opening the doors for its channel partners to have access to the GSA Schedule. Together, Ingram Micro and Promark have significantly grown the distributor's GSA schedule and support hundreds of leading hardware, networking, security, software, systems and storage vendors and offer a broad spectrum of public sector-focused training and education services, as well as specialized marketing, sales and business enablement support.

"The growing breadth and depth of Promark's GSA schedule and Ingram Micro's Public Sector program, combined with our collaborative sales and support efforts make it easier for channel partners to win bigger deals and uncover new opportunities within the public sector," says Todd Hartung, vice president, Promark, an Ingram Micro company. "Our highly-trained, field-based sales, technical and credit support personnel, as well as marketing specialists are experts at helping channel partners build a stronger business and deliver a customized portfolio of solutions and value-added services."
