Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment Named Visionary in Magic Quadrant for Third-Party Logistics Providers, North America

Industry Leader recognized for innovative technologies, on demand network and transparency

IRVINE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment, a strategic business unit of Ingram Micro Inc., today announced it has been named a Visionary in Gartner's 2017 Magic Quadrant for Third-Party Logistics (3PL), North America report.

The 2017 report acknowledges 3PL excellence in a number of focus areas, including providers' ability to service customers, breadth and depth of service, demonstrated innovation and specialized industry capabilities. Customer interviews were also considered in the selection process.

Ranking among 18 3PL providers to qualify for the 2017 report, Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment was recognized by Gartner for connecting supply and demand among retailers, manufacturers, suppliers and consumers, and for enabling and promoting multichannel commerce transactions through innovative technology. The company was also praised for strong account management, communication and transparency.

"Ingram Micro is honored to be recognized as a Visionary company in the North American 3PL industry in Gartner's Magic Quadrant," said Jeff Davidson, vice president - Americas, Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment. "Innovation in this industry is an imperative as global commerce increases in demand and complexity. This ranking validates our continued investment in infrastructure, technology and our commitment to developing solutions that enable our customers' growth into new channels around the world."

Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment recently earned additional industry validation by supporting fulfillment activities in the supply chains of multiple companies ranked in Gartner's 2017 Supply Chain Top 25 report, which identifies the top supply chain leaders globally.
