Inpixon Releases Enhanced Indoor Mapping Platform, Expanding Capabilities, Scalability and Security

PALO ALTO, Calif., Sept. 30, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Inpixon (Nasdaq: INPX), the Indoor Intelligence™ company, today announced the release of Inpixon Mapping 4.15, the company's latest version of its enterprise-class indoor mapping platform, delivering enhancements in performance, scalability, security and more.

Inpixon Mapping's new features include the following:

- CMS redesign: Easily create and manage venues and maps with the streamlined content management system (CMS)
- Okta SSO: Log in easily and securely using your existing CMS credentials with Okta single sign-on
- SDK Standalone Services: Decrease development time and increase app performance by accessing specific, standalone SDK functionality
- And more: Enhanced GeoJSON layer management, IMDF export tool, and multi-building renderings on a world map

"This latest release of Inpixon Mapping adds a number of substantial features and tools for developers and map administrators, making it even easier for customers to create and manage map-enabled apps," noted Adam Benson, CTO of Inpixon. "Whether used for search and navigation, security, or asset tracking, Inpixon maps power the way."

Nadir Ali, CEO of Inpixon, added, "Great maps are essential to delivering exceptional experiences. Inpixon Mapping -- working within 3rd-party apps or as part of our turnkey CXApp smart office app, optionally coupled with Inpixon On-Device Positioning, unleashes the power of location awareness and makes the workplace and employee experience come alive. I believe our ability to deliver a phenomenal experience is what's fueling our strong demand across a wide variety of industry sectors. This latest mapping release underscores our intent and capability to remain near the forefront of this fast-growing market."
