LAS VEGAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- PharmaCyte Biotech, Inc. (Nasdaq:PMCB) ("PharmaCyte" or the "Company"), today announced the successful monetization of its stake in Femasys Inc. (NASDAQ: FEMY), further validating the Company's strategic approach to capital deployment and strengthening its already solid financial position.

Following the monetization of the stake, PharmaCyte's cash and marketable securities are expected to increase to approximately $20 million, up from $13.3 million as of July 31, 2025. This transaction highlights the Company's ability to identify and execute on high-quality opportunities that deliver strong returns while maintaining a conservative risk profile.

"We are committed to deploying shareholder capital intelligently, balancing near-term returns with opportunities that can deliver sustained value creation."

As valued in the most recently filed 10Q, PharmaCyte Biotech has approximately $25 million in marketable securities, in addition to roughly $20 million in cash, inclusive of the proceeds from the Femasys monetization.
