Addison Ashton-Boyd, D.C., Senior Director of Chiropractic Operations, Harkins Chiropractic of So. California

Dr. Ashton-Boyd earned his Doctorate in Chiropractic from Southern California University of Health Sciences, where he graduated with honors in 2011. He received his undergraduate degree in Human Biology from University of California, Irvine. Before switching to chiropractic, Dr. Ashton-Boyd was enrolled in the UC Irvine School of Medicine. His decision to focus on chiropractic demonstrates his strong commitment to the significant benefits to be gained from a preventive, natural, drug-free approach to pain management.

Dr. Ashton-Boyd has lived in California for the past 16 years. Prior to working at The Joint, he served as director of SMMC's Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Department.

"Back pain and discomfort is usually just an indicator, a symptom, of a more involved set of issues developed over time based on how people live their daily lives," said Dr. Ashton-Boyd. "I firmly believe in the benefits of regular chiropractic adjustments as an effective tool that can deliver long-lasting benefits in each patient's individual quest for increased mobility and wellness."

Clinics of The Joint are open seven days a week, are conveniently located in retail centers, and do not require appointments or insurance. Patients can choose from several affordable plans and packages, with a significantly lower per visit cost than the average insurance co-pay.
