

Marathon Patent Group Wholly Owned Subsidiary TLI Communications GmbH Wins First Instance Patent Infringement Ruling Including Injunctive Relief Against Yahoo! Inc. and Pinterest Germany GmbH

LOS ANGELES, CA -- (Marketwired) -- 04/21/16 -- Marathon Patent Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: MARA) ("Marathon"), a patent licensing company, announced today that on April 21, 2016, Marathon Patent Group's wholly owned subsidiary TLI Communications GmbH was notified that two favorable first instance patent infringement rulings have been issued involving the German part of European patent EP 0 814 611 B1 ('patent in dispute') before the Munich District Court I. The rulings include injunctive relief and declaration of liability for damages, as well as the additional grant of claims for a rendering of accounts related to the infringing products.

The rulings apply in the matter of TLI Communications GmbH versus:

- Yahoo! Inc. and Yahoo! EMEA Limited, concerning the Internet service "Flickr" operated by Yahoo! Inc. and Yahoo! EMEA Limited, as well as the associated application software for smartphones and tablet computers;
- Pinterest Germany GmbH, concerning the Internet service "Pinterest" operated by the Pinterest Germany GmbH and Pinterest Inc., as well as the associated application software for smartphones and tablet computers.

All defendants may appeal these rulings to the Munich Court of Appeal. However, TLI Communications GmbH may immediately enforce today's rulings, in particular the injunctive relief, after providing a certain security set by the Court.

Parallel proceedings are pending against Tumblr, Inc., Pinterest, Inc., Box Inc., and Box.com (UK) Ltd.

The nullity (validity) hearing is scheduled November 17, 2016, but it will not affect today's rulings until after that date should TLI receive an adverse ruling in that hearing. The Munich District Court was not convinced of a high likelihood of patent invalidation and therefore, in its recent rulings, has rejected Yahoo! and Pinterest Germany's request for a stay of the infringement proceedings pending the outcome of the parallel validity proceedings.

"We are pleased that the Munich District Court has held that the defendants infringe our valuable patent and that we will be able to seek injunctive relief. I would like to thank our legal and licensing teams for their tremendous efforts to date," said Doug Croxall, Founder and CEO of Marathon Patent Group.
