System Audio is a technological breakthrough that delivers big sound and amazing dynamics with its two ultrafast digital amplifiers and integrated electronics receiving high definition audio wirelessly via WiSA technology. These beautiful speakers were created to fit into the world of wireless digital 7.1 home cinema and have multiple streaming options, from DLNA/UPnP to GoogleCast, Bluetooth and Airplay. With additional models in the line, the SA Legend Silverback speakers present a unique family of active speakers that can be used wirelessly with a WiSA Certified hub or WiSA transmitter or connected to a preamplifier.

"WiSA couldn't be more proud of System Audio for winning this well-deserved award," said Tony Ostrom, President of WiSA. "With a wide range of speakers, each offering elegant Danish design and a keen focus on aesthetics, sound and advanced technology, it's no surprise that a System Audio speaker was selected for this high honor. The recognition proves WiSA members like System Audio, who never compromise on a product's quality or design, are capturing the attention of discerning listeners around the world."

The Expert Imaging and Sound Association is an international association of 61 test magazines in 29 countries. Each year, the EISA Awards celebrate new, notable products, like System Audio's Legend 5 Silverback speakers, that combine the most advanced technology and desirable features with a top-of-the line performance. The EISA Awards recognizes everything from high-value yet affordable products to products that exemplify more modern consumer electronics.

“With EISA being the most coveted award in our industry, we couldn’t be more excited about the EISA recognition,” said Ole Witthøft, Founder of System Audio. “With its elegant, fine-sounding, wire-free music solution, we see the user-friendly Legend 5 Silverback being a staple for the home cinema experience. We look forward to more work with WiSA to bring additional WiSA Certified products to market to further interoperable wireless home theater options and meet the needs of today’s consumers.”
