“WiSA’s rapid expansion in the consumer electronics industry has been made evident with the success of the WiSA SoundSend and the Association’s mission to continue to provide high-quality, immersive sound to consumers worldwide,” said Tony Ostrom, WiSA President. “On behalf of the WiSA Association, we are excited that the WiSA SoundSend is proving to be a game-changing component for home cinema and that its award-winning technology has, and will continue to, positively impact the category as well as user experiences.”

The WiSA SoundSend is designed to provide wireless, high-res audio of up to 24bit/96kHz and can connect to any of the 100s of million smart TVs in minutes with HDMI ARC/eARC or optical connections. It can also transmit up to eight channels of high fidelity audio to WiSA Certified™ speakers with no WiFi required and can decode Dolby Digital, Dolby Digital + and Dolby Atmos. With an increase of consumers investing in a home cinema experience, the WiSA SoundSend is ideal with its wireless connectivity and seamless installation, creating the perfect environment for home theater entertainment. The WiSA SoundSend also connects with high-performing products from leading CE brands and manufacturers like Klipsch, Harman, Savant, Dynaudio, Bang and Olufsen, Lithe Audio, Enclave Audio and more. The WiSA SoundSend is distributed throughout North America and the EU and is bundled with solutions from Platin Audio including the Monaco 5.1.

The Consumer Technology Association represents the over $400 billion US consumer technology industry, consisting of varying company sizes and specialties. Its annual Mark of Excellence Awards, which CTA owns and produces, welcomes new product and project submissions fit for residential spaces.

The WiSA SoundSend wireless audio transmitter has earned an impressive roster of award recognitions in the last year, including:
