

Ingram Micro Commerce Sees Significant Growth in Fulfillment Volume during kickoff to Holiday Season

IRVINE, CA -- (Marketwired) -- 12/07/16 -- Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment, a strategic business unit of Ingram Micro Inc., experienced increased early volume for Holiday 2016. In North America and the U.S. in particular, the days following Thanksgiving are when retailers and ecommerce sites offer steep promotions on products and shipping in order to incentivize customers to shop earlier. The five day period includes Thanksgiving, Black Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Cyber Monday.

For customers using Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment's Shipwire technology, there was an impressive increase of more than 100% in order volume across the five day period. The most significant increases were on Black Friday and Cyber Monday, up 66% and 130%, respectively. According to Adobe Digital Insights, online spend in the U.S. over the same five day time frame had average increases of just over 20% for Black Friday and 10% for Cyber Monday.

Across the full North American Ingram Micro Commerce & Fulfillment network, the five day period saw an overall 24% average volume increase. By category, Home Products showed the strongest order growth at 130%, followed by Toys and Games, Consumer Electronics and Consumer Goods.

"We understand that the Holiday season continues to be a make or break period for many brands and retailers and we are committed to ensuring our customers can handle any increase in volume, however exponential," said Mike Abrams, Executive Director of Commerce & Fulfillment Operations at Ingram Micro. "Key to our success is our year-round planning for the peak season."

"We are continuing to see promotions pushed to earlier in the five day period and some customers have created a month-long promotional period spanning all of November," Abrams continued. "For this peak season in particular, we added significant capacity across our U.S. network, including major geographic regions. Additionally, we continue to make strategic investments, in our technology platform analytics, to give customers best-in-class performance and real-time visibility into their inventory and orders."
