Sidus Space Partners with Orbital Transports to Expand Market Reach

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Sidus Space, Inc. (NASDAQ: SIDU) (the "Company" or "Sidus"), a multi-faceted Space and Data-as-a-Service satellite company, today announced it has joined Orbital Transports Partner Program to expand the Company's market reach within the global space industry.

The Orbital Transports Partner Program is a community of companies, suppliers, and subcontractors working together to solve space mission challenges for our Customer and Partner companies. The Orbital Transports SmallSat Catalog is an Internet web portal that provides partner companies with a new distribution channel and access to new markets by aggregating space products and services into a comprehensive marketplace.

Sidus Space is offering technology integration services on our 100kg LizzieSat satellite bus platform on our confirmed launches. LizzieSat can also be contracted as a dedicated bus for one-off missions or at scale for full constellation deployment. Additionally, Sidus Space is offering our FeatherEdge high-performance edge computing platform to support on-orbit intelligent operations and in-situ A.I. applications.

"We look forward to working with Orbital Transports to raise our visibility in the global market and reach a wider audience in the space industry through the Orbital Transports SmallSat Catalog," said Carol Craig, Founder and CEO of Sidus Space. "Orbital Transports provides us with an additional distribution channel and connects us with a broader market base where we can gain additional business opportunities."

"We are thrilled to welcome Sidus Space to the Orbital Transport partner network," said David Hurst, CEO of Orbital Transports. "Space is a collaborative enterprise; none of us have all the answers. The key to success is knowing where to find the answers. Our partner network facilitates connections with people and companies who have those answers and can solve your challenges."
