“The Axiim WM series is beautifully designed both esthetically and sonically,” said Tony Ostrom, president of WiSA. “Axiim has delivered a great assortment of powerful speaker solutions that allow for multiple system configurations that perfectly complement their amazing LINK and Q UHD WiSA

Certified transmitters.”

“We are excited to see the growth in the wireless home audio category driven by the WiSA Association,” said James Hammer, CEO of Axiim. “Our WM speakers reflect our passion for great sound and our commitment to continue to deliver amazing audio solutions that break down barriers of complexity that so often prevent the enjoyment of great audio.”

“In recognition of this exciting milestone,” Hammer continued, “we are offering a two-week promotion of a 40% discount on all Axiim audio system bundles with both the Q UHD Transmitter and the LINK Transmitter designed for WiSA Ready™ products like Xbox and LG OLED and Nanocell TVs on Axiim.com.”

The WM series consists of the WM5311FS towers ($1,089/pair), the WM5111SS monitors ($689/pair), the WM5211CS center channel ($449/each) and the WM121SW subwoofer ($499/each) and allows consumers to build the system that is right for them from a simple 2.0 to a full 7.1 or anywhere in between. All WiSA Certified Axiim speakers and transmitters enjoy 24bit/96kHz HD wireless audio regardless of system configuration.

The Axiim WM towers, monitors and centers utilize 5" drivers with cast aluminum baskets, 1" cloth dome wide surround tweeters in slim, sealed enclosures with powerful class-D amplifiers and custom digital signal processing. The 300 watt 12" subwoofer delivers impressive low-frequency extension and definition from its sealed enclosure. All Axiim WM wireless speakers are designed in the U.S. and available on axiim.com.
