Fitness Powerhouses Come Together to Expand Digital Offerings

IRVINE, Calif., April 24, 2020 /PRNewswire/ --Aaptiv, the leading provider of premium digital health and wellness content, and Xponential Fitness, a curator of boutique fitness brands across fitness & wellness verticals, today announced a partnership by which subscribers of Xponential Fitness' GO subscription, their digital fitness platform, can access Aaptiv's audio-guided and structured workouts. Aaptiv workouts will be available in each of Xponential studios' apps.

Aaptiv's world class content across nearly a dozen wellness categories, including sleep, meditation and at-home cardio will help supplement Xponential's extensive studio offerings, which include workouts from Club Pilates, Pure Barre, CycleBar, Row House, StretchLab, YogaSix, AKT and STRIDE.

"Xponential's mission is to provide a comprehensive, inspiring experience for both our studio members and GO subscribers. Our GO product also compliments over 1500 brick and mortar studios around the globe that create access for our members online. By partnering with Aaptiv, the leading provider of wellness content, we are further strengthening that offering," said Anthony Geisler, CEO of Xponential Fitness.

"Aaptiv Enterprise is about strengthening our clients' relationship with their members. By adding Aaptiv's cardio and recovery classes to studio workouts, Xponential is providing their members with an incomparable experience. And because Aaptiv's content doesn't require equipment, our solution allows for taking classes at home, on your schedule," said Ethan Agarwal, CEO and Founder of Aaptiv.

Aaptiv's partnership with Xponential is another success within Aaptiv Enterprise, which allows companies to license the products, content, and data expertise that Aaptiv has developed over the last four years.
