Volt Consulting Group President Rhona Driggs Named to SIA's Global Power 100 Women in Staffing List

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Volt Information Sciences, Inc. ("Volt" or the "Company") (NYSE-MKT:VISI) announced today that Rhona Driggs, President of Volt Consulting Group, has been recognized as one of the Global Power 100 Women in Staffing, according to Staffing Industry Analysts (SIA). As an industry leader, Driggs' career has been built on creating and growing strategic staffing relationships with many of the largest and most influential MSP companies in the world. As President of Volt Consulting Group, Rhona leads Volt's MSP business, in addition to her role of Executive Vice President of the Commercial Operations of Volt Workforce Solutions.

Said Michael Dean, CEO of Volt Information Sciences, Inc. "As an executive leader at Volt, Rhona has earned the respect of both clients and colleagues. She has earned the loyalty of her teams over the years and frequently demonstrates her ability to work productively across divisional lines. Rhona is instrumental in our clients' continued confidence in Volt's workforce and managed service solutions."

"I am honored to be recognized by SIA, alongside my respected peers," said Driggs. "I could not have made this list without the efforts and exceptional talent of my colleagues at Volt, they have created a level of client service where excellence in quality is our daily standard for our clients, partners, and candidates."

Under Driggs' leadership, Volt deployed one of the first, largest, and most successful Master Vendor MSPs in the staffing industry. Rhona has spent over 26 years in the staffing industry, and in her 20 years at Volt, she has built a sustainable client delivery model that has created long-term workforce management and staffing solutions for high-value relationships with many large and influential global companies.
