Novelis Completes Amendment To Credit Agreement

ATLANTA, Oct. 16 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Novelis Inc. (NYSE: NVL) (TSX: NVL) today announced that the Company and its lenders have agreed to amend certain financial covenants and other provisions of the Company's $1.8 billion Credit Agreement.

Effective today, the covenants concerning the minimum interest coverage, maximum total leverage, and fixed charge coverage ratios will be relaxed for the periods through and including the first quarter of 2008.

The Company's request for financial covenant relief was in response to an increase in interest expense and a reduction in EBITDA due mostly to losses in connection with certain can sheet sales that are affected by contractual metal price ceilings. The other, non-financial, covenant amendments will enable Novelis to improve its working capital management and access its global cash more efficiently in order to continue de-leveraging.

Novelis has reduced its Term Loan from $1,300 million at inception to $798 million at the end of the second quarter of 2006. Total debt has been reduced by approximately $468 million over the same period. As previously disclosed, the outlook for 2007 is for continued de-leveraging, on the order of $150 million to $200 million, assuming average aluminum prices of $2,500 per metric ton.

Novelis is the global leader in aluminum rolled products and aluminum can recycling. The Company operates in 11 countries and has approximately 12,500 employees. Novelis has the unrivaled capability to provide its customers with a regional supply of technologically sophisticated rolled aluminum products throughout Asia, Europe, North America, and South America. Through its advanced production capabilities, the Company supplies aluminum sheet and foil to the automotive and transportation, beverage and food packaging, construction and industrial, and printing markets.
