Send Form 8937 (including accompanying statements) to: Department of the Treasury, Internal Revenue Service, Ogden, UT 84201-0054
The attached Form 8937 and this Appendix A are intended to constitute a public reporting under Section 6045B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and Sections 1.6045B-1(a)(3) and (b)(4) of the Treasury Regulations relating to a conversion rate adjustment on Intel Corporation’s Convertible Debentures (described below). This Appendix A is intended to provide only a general summary of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences of the conversion rate adjustment and is not intended to provide a comprehensive analysis of all potential U.S. federal income tax consequences related to the conversion rate adjustment. You should consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the conversion rate adjustment particular to you.

| Line 14 – Description of Organizational Action | On November 3, 2016, the conversion rate on the 3.25% Junior Subordinated Convertible Debentures due 2039 (CUSIP NO. 458140AF7) (the “Convertible Debentures”) was increased as a result of one or more dividend distributions with respect to Intel Corporation’s common stock. The record date for the cash dividend precipitating the conversion rate adjustment was November 7, 2016. The conversion rate adjustment is treated as a deemed distribution of property to the holders of the Convertible Debentures. Intel Corporation expects that it will have sufficient current or accumulated earnings and profits to treat the deemed distribution as a dividend for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Accordingly, holders of the Convertible Debentures on November 3, 2016, are required to treat the conversion rate adjustment as the receipt of a dividend distribution. In addition, because the dividend is reflected only in the conversion rate adjustment (that is, holders do not receive a cash distribution), holders must increase their basis in the convertible debentures by the amount of the dividend distribution. |
