

I.D. Systems Secures Five-Year Contract With All Truck Transportation

WOODCLIFF LAKE, N.J., Nov. 10, 2015 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- I.D. Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ:IDSY), a leading provider of wireless solutions for the Industrial Internet of Things, has secured a multi-year contract with All Truck Transportation, a regional truckload transportation provider in the Midwest. All Truck Transportation will deploy 1,500 VeriWise™ Dry Van Track & Trace (GSM-D100) systems on its entire fleet of trailers.

The VeriWise Track and Trace system provides real-time GPS location data—via cellular communications and web-based software—to improve the security and efficiency of freight transportation fleets. The system is designed for quick, flexible installation on virtually any type of trailer, with patented power management technology for exceptionally long, maintenance-free battery life.

Nino Alagna, president of All Truck Transportation, commented: “Following a comprehensive evaluation process, we were highly impressed with I.D. Systems’ technology. The VeriWise system provides invaluable insights into key performance indicators of our assets, and allows our operators to identify empty trailers in real-time through the VeriWise mobile solution.”

Matt Harris, Sr. Vice President of Transportation Sales at I.D. Systems, added: “We were able to replace All Truck’s current provider of vehicle-tracking systems, due to the industry-leading features of our VeriWise fleet management system, including a robust analytics platform and in-transit reporting. We look forward to supporting All Truck’s efforts to more efficiently manage their growing fleet of transportation assets.”
