George Maxwell, VAALCO's Chief Executive Officer commented, "We finished 2023 with solid production driven by our capital programs in Egypt and Canada and the continued strong operational uptime in Gabon. In 2023, we raised our full year production and sales guidance following excellent first half 2023 results and our continued outstanding performance has allowed us to achieve the top end of our sales guidance and our production was also above the midpoint of the increased guidance range. Our high-quality asset base, combined with our exceptional operational and financial teams, have helped us to deliver this strong performance that exceeded expectations. We have grown our cash by more than $80 million in 2023 and ended the year with over $120 million in cash. VAALCO was able to accomplish this even after funding our capital program, paying out $27 million in dividends and repurchasing $21 million of VAALCO stock. We remain committed to maximizing shareholder value, generating meaningful cash flow and growing our production and reserves across a larger, diversified portfolio. We have entered 2024 with a clean balance sheet, growing cash position and robust operational performance, underpinning management's confidence in achieving our strategic objectives."
