Synalloy Issues Investor Presentation Highlighting Plan to Create Value for All Shareholders

Presentation Highlights Synalloy's Outperformance in Both Peak and Trough Periods of the Business Cycle

Highlights Privet/UPG's Disingenuous Campaign to Gain Control of Synalloy's Board and Business Without Paying Shareholders a Premium

Addresses the Lack of Substance in Privet/UPG's Stated Operating Plan and Expresses Concerns About Integration with UPG

Explains That Cumulative Voting Essentially Guarantees Privet/UPG Significant Board

Representation and Cautions Shareholders that Voting on Privet/UPG's Proxy Card Can Have Unintended Consequences Because of Cumulative Voting

RICHMOND, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

Synalloy Corporation (Nasdaq: SYNL) ("Synalloy" or the "Company") today announced that it has filed a detailed investor presentation titled "Building Long-Term Value for Shareholders," highlighting Synalloy's plan to create value for shareholders, excellent, long-term performance in its sectors, and cautioning shareholders about Privet/UPG's efforts to gain control of Synalloy's Board and business, without paying a control premium, based on a series of "Business School" strategies that lack depth or evidence that the dissident nominees can deliver on their promises.

Synalloy encourages shareholders to read the investor presentation, as well as its proxy materials and shareholder letters, and learn how to vote the BLUE proxy card for Synalloy's experienced directors. These communications can be found on the Company's Investor Relations website, here: <https://synalloy.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/06/Synalloy-Investor-Deck-FINAL.pdf>.

Highlights from the presentation include:

Synalloy is a top-performing metals and specialty chemicals business

- Synalloy outperformed peers through the business cycle peak at YE 2018
- 2019's infrastructure spending recession led to a decline in volumes and prices, which hurt Synalloy's primary business, Bristol Metals
- Synalloy has reacted aggressively, cutting costs and debt, and has grown market share in 2020
- Synalloy is a cyclical business that must be evaluated from peak-to-peak and troughto-trough, not year-to-year

- From the time Mr. Bram became CEO of Synalloy through May 31, 2020, Synalloy's stock outperformed the median TSR of the peer group selected by ISS

Synalloy has the right plan and team to create value for shareholders

- Strategic plan focuses on profitable growth, cost management, safe operations and balance sheet management
- Synalloy has a history of successfully acquiring, integrating and operating complex, cyclical manufacturing businesses
- Executive team and Board are experienced and qualified, with years of transparent, excellent business performance; CEO has been active buyer of Synalloy stock in the open market
- The Company is committed to running a full strategic alternatives process as soon as feasible (post COVID-19 crisis)

Privet and UPG are running a disingenuous campaign to gain control of the Board and business of Synalloy

- Privet praised Synalloy and its management, and coveted Synalloy's assets and operations, for years
- Privet was stymied in its acquisition efforts by its own failure to secure financing
- Now, Privet and UPG have manufactured disingenuous, false and misleading complaints to gain control of the Board and business of Synalloy without paying shareholders a premium or having to finance an acquisition
- Privet and UPG never approached Synalloy with any complaint or demand before nominating a control slate
- Synalloy made multiple efforts to find a collaborative solution to avoid the cost and distraction of Privet/UPG's proxy contest. Privet/UPG have rejected our offers, refusing to have meaningful settlement talks unless we first agreed to substantial management and board overhaul criteria.

UPG's interest appears to be in integrating its opaque business with Synalloy, presumably to benefit UPG

- If successful in this campaign, the dissidents intend to name UPG's co-founder and manager as interim CEO of Synalloy and then "integrate" UPG and Synalloy's supply chain, marketing, back office and technology operations
- The dissidents have not demonstrated the benefits to be gained for Synalloy with such an integration
- UPG's conflict of interest and desire to cost share/shift with Synalloy may make Synalloy unattractive to an acquiror, precluding a value maximizing deal for Synalloy shareholders

Privet and UPG's stated operating plan is a hollow platform and there is no evidence that the dissident nominees can execute on it

- The dissident's "plan" does not reflect an understanding or appreciation for Synalloy's complex operations, markets or value drivers
- No one on the dissident's slate appears to have operated or overseen a similar business

- The dissident nominees have significant conflicts of interest, some of which have not been disclosed by the dissidents

Because of cumulative voting, the dissidents are assured of significant Board representation even without any unaffiliated shareholder support

- Cumulative voting is extremely rare in election contests and should be a critical consideration for shareholders who wish to avoid unintended consequences
- The dissidents could elect three directors (depending on the turnout at the annual meeting), even without any other shareholder support
- With even modest support from shareholders, the dissidents could obtain control of Synalloy despite Synalloy's long record of successful operations and TSR outperformance

Synalloy's Board urges shareholders to return the BLUE proxy card to support Synalloy's comprehensive slate of experienced directors, who are committed to enhancing value for ALL shareholders.

Synalloy's Board urges shareholders to support the Company by voting on the BLUE proxy card today.
