Pinczuk was most recently president and general manager for HPE Pointnext, HPE's $7B+ services organization, where she led a global organization of 25,000 IT experts delivering professional and operational services to HPE customers worldwide.

"We're excited that Ana Pinczuk has joined our board," commented Edward W. (Ned) Barnholt, chairman of the board of KLA-Tencor. "Ana is an accomplished technology executive with demonstrated success leading industry transformation, enabled through world-class technology and business model execution for large-scale global enterprises. She has broad experience across a number of technology industries, including mobile, IP networking, software, data storage and security."

Prior to HPE Pointnext, Pinczuk was executive vice president and chief product officer of Veritas Technologies, LLC. There, she led the company's multi-billion dollar product portfolio. During her 15-year tenure at Cisco Systems, Inc., she drove the transformation of Cisco's services business and grew the cloud, software, IoE and professional services sectors, ultimately serving as senior vice president of sales.

"We believe Ana's expertise and guidance will be a tremendous resource to KLA-Tencor's growing services business," added Barnholt. "We look forward to working closely with her and benefitting from her insight as KLA-Tencor executes its strategies for growth."

Pinczuk serves on the board of Carnegie Mellon University's College of Engineering, is a member of the Cornell University Computer and Information Sciences advisory board, and was also named a 2016 Woman of Influence by the Silicon Valley Business Journal. She holds a Bachelor of Science and a Master of Engineering in mechanical engineering from Cornell University, a Master of Technology Management from the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School, and a Master of Science in software management from Carnegie Mellon University.
