KRLA/KTIE Director of Programming, Chuck Tyler commented, "Jen and Grant have instant chemistry. They are the most talented team I have ever had the privilege of working with. They have the rare ability to cover and comment on serious issues, while having some fun at the same time."

According to Salem Vice President of Spoken Word Phil Boyce, "Waking up Los Angeles is one of the most important jobs in radio, and Jen and Grant have figured out the formula. They always have a smile, but can deliver the day's top news with a dose of reality. Salem is very proud to showcase these hosts."

Jennifer Horn is excited for the commitment from KRLA/KTIE, "Once in a career you get a golden opportunity and this is it! It has been the ultimate honor working with Salem and our local team to develop a morning show that is making incredible strides in the LA market. Grant Stinchfield is the ultimate professional. He brings a background in journalism, a unique perspective and sense of humor, it's been so much fun to partner and build chemistry with him. The sky is the limit with the Morning Answer!"

Grant Stinchfield commented, "I could not be more thrilled to work for Salem Media, a company that doesn't just respect free speech but cherishes it. Jennifer Horn is an amazing talent. Through her passion, humor and welcoming nature, she has created a true morning family that I am so grateful to be a part of."
