SiriusXM listeners will hear "The War of the Worlds," the classic radio drama performed by Orson Welles that caused panic and convinced listeners 75 years ago that Martians had landed in Grover's Mill, NJ, and the United States was being attacked. "The War of the Worlds" will air on Wednesday, October 30, at 8:00 pm ET, via satellite on Radio Classics, channel 82. "The War of the Worlds" will also be rebroadcast on Halloween at 10:00 pm ET and Friday, November 1, at 12:00 am ET.

Following the broadcast of "The War of the Worlds," SiriusXM listeners will also hear "War of the Welles," a new audio documentary that explores Orson Welles and the original 1938 "War of the Worlds" radio broadcast. "War of the Welles" is a celebration of the achievement by Orson Welles and the Mercury Theatre in creating "The War of the Worlds." The new documentary by R.H. Green is introduced by sci-fi icon, George Takei, and is a production of John Rabe for Southern California Public Radio.

Legendary late night host, Art Bell, will host "Art Bell's Spooky Matter," a special Halloween edition of his SiriusXM late night show featuring ghost stories and paranormal encounters from listeners and guests. "Art Bell's Spooky Matter" will air on Thursday, October 31, starting at 10:00 pm ET, on Indie, channel 104, and through the SiriusXM Internet Radio App on smartphones and other connected devices, as well as online at siriusxm.com. Listeners can submit a story via email at artbell.com, or call 855-732-5836 (or 855-REAL-UFO).

Entertainment Weekly Radio will celebrate Halloween with the "Halloween Movie Bracket Challenge," inviting fans to vote for their favorite horror movie of all-time starting on Friday, October 11. Clark Collis, Darren Franich, and Keith Staskiewicz, hosts of the weekly show, "Entertainment Weirdly," exploring all the weird news and trends in the world of entertainment, have selected and will discuss their favorite 32 horror movies of all-time from categories such as the undead, supernatural, Satanic, and slasher/torture films. Throughout October, EW Radio show hosts will also discuss their personal favorite horror movies and characters. Entertainment Weekly Radio airs via satellite on channel 105, and through the SiriusXM Internet Radio App on smartphones and other connected devices, as well as online at siriusxm.com. Starting this Friday, visit the horror movie bracket poll and vote for your favorite fright flick at www.facebook.com/siriusxm. A winner will be announced on Halloween.

The return of Scream Radio, SiriusXM's exclusive limited-run Halloween channel, provides the ultimate scary sound-effect soundtrack for fun and fright, featuring traditional Halloween music, spooky music from classic horror films, bone-chilling ghost stories, and exclusive interviews from scare-masters including Stephen King, R.L. Stine, Ann Rice, Roger Corman, all mixed with catchy, creepy, fun scary sounds, creaking doors, footsteps, bubbling potions, breaking glass, the horrific sounds of being chased through the dark woods, hair-raising screams, the echo of dripping water and more for everyone trick-or-treating, hosting Halloween parties at home and in the office, or getting into the Halloween spirit while driving.

Scream Radio will air starting Friday, October 25, at 12:00 pm ET, through Friday, November 1, at 3:00 am ET, via satellite on channel 142, and via the SiriusXM Internet Radio app for smartphones and other connected devices, as well as online at siriusxm.com, on the Comedy Showcase channel.

In addition, SiriusXM will broadcast Halloween programming across multiple talk and entertainment channels, including:

Stars: Martha Stewart dedicates the week of October 28 to Halloween during her daily show, "Martha Live," to Halloween decor, party ideas, costumes, and more, starting Monday, October 28, at 12:00 pm ET, via satellite on channel 106, and through the SiriusXM Internet Radio App on smartphones and other connected devices, as well as online at siriusxm.com.
