security environment. A collaborative, cross-functional Joint Security Operations Center that brings people, processes and tools together is a cornerstone of the program.

Carol Juel, Synchrony Financial executive vice president and CIO, notes, "We are proud to be chosen as an InformationWeek Elite 100 finalist for the second year in a row, recognized for our strategic and innovative information security program, which has become a true business enabler."

"As business success becomes even more dependent on the ability to innovate in information technology, being represented on the InformationWeek Elite 100 list is one of the biggest honors a company can achieve," said Susan Nunziata, editorial director of InformationWeek. "It's a validation of efforts by the business to make IT a game changer."

Daniel Conroy, Synchrony Financial's Chief Information Security Officer (CISO), believes that information security is a team sport. He added, "To foster a culture of security awareness requires collaboration with everyone across our business as well as with partners, clients and vendors. In 2015 we engaged with many client CISOs to help defend our ecosystem and will continue to do so as part of our regular business engagement."

The InformationWeek Elite 100 research tracks the technology-based investments, strategies, and results of some of the best-known organizations in the country. Unique among corporate rankings, the InformationWeek Elite 100 spotlights the power of business technology innovation.
