Chief Investment Officer Elliot Han commented, "The first quarter of 2026 continued to demonstrate our ability to identify and rapidly monetize value across leading private digital asset companies while maintaining exposure to the broader digital asset infrastructure ecosystem. We expanded our high-conviction portfolio with new late-stage positions and realized our first two liquidity events since IPO — the partial divestiture of our Ripple position at an approximate 150% return in less than four months, and BitGo's public offering. We remain focused on disciplined sourcing as we continue to build our diversified and curated portfolio."

Chief Executive Officer Dr. Najam Kidwai commented, "As we continue to deploy capital, we have strengthened our outlook with our first sale of an investment and as regulation clarifies in the digital asset sector. We believe our focus on concentrated exposure to mature digital asset services and infrastructure companies with proven business models is providing our investors a portfolio composition typically available only to venture capital, private equity, and institutional investors.

“The digital asset market is seeing notable improvement in the first half of 2026 due to an increasingly clear regulatory landscape and deeper integration with traditional financial systems. The ecosystem has continued to mature through accelerated institutional adoption and higher market liquidity. We believe a growing pipeline of potential liquidity events across the sector positions C1 Fund to offer strategic access to private market upside through the public equity market.”
