ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 25, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Vuzix® Corporation (NASDAQ: VUZI), ("Vuzix" or, the "Company"), a leading supplier of Smart Glasses, Augmented Reality (AR)) technology and products for the consumer and enterprise markets, is pleased to announce that the Company has recently received a purchase order for 140 M-Series smart glasses from a Japanese multinational technology and electronics company for distribution to their enterprise customer base for remote support.

Due to the recent addition of a number of remote support applications including Zoom, Skype for Business, Ubimax Frontline and Librestream Onsite, coupled with the recent impact of travel to certain areas of the world, Vuzix has seen an increase in RFQ's related to remote support and operations management across the United States, Europe and Japan.

"The ability to deliver expertise from an expert located on one side of the world to a remote technician located somewhere else is proving to be a key market vertical for Vuzix," said Paul Travers, President and CEO of Vuzix. "Vuzix has a number of compatible remote support applications which are being well received and driving strong ROIs and knowledge transfer for our global customer base."
