Synchrony Issues Statement in Response to Lawsuit by Walmart Inc.

STAMFORD, Conn.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Synchrony (NYSE:SYF) (the "Company"), a premier consumer financial services company, today issued the following statement in response to the lawsuit recently filed by Walmart Inc. in United States District Court for the Western District of Arkansas:

This lawsuit is nothing more than an attempt by Walmart to exert leverage and avoid the contractually defined process for valuing the loan portfolio that Synchrony has serviced on behalf of millions of Walmart customers for the last 20 years. It is unfortunate that, despite our good faith efforts to resolve this commercial dispute amicably and in accordance with the contract, Walmart walked away from discussions and rushed to file suit.

Ultimately, Walmart is trying to avoid paying the fair market value for the portfolio as required by our contract.

We believe Walmart's complaint is completely baseless and without merit, and we intend to vigorously defend our position.

Synchrony applied the same underwriting and decision-making processes to the Walmart portfolio as it does to all portfolios. The credit performance of the portfolio was simply driven by the credit distribution of the applicants, the relative performance of Walmart cardholders and Walmart's failure to promote the program.

While we would have preferred to resolve this matter commercially, Synchrony intends to file substantial claims that will demonstrate Walmart failed in the most basic elements of our contract, including its promotion of the card program both in stores and online.

While this is clearly an attempt by Walmart to avoid paying the fair market value for the portfolio, we are committed to enforcing the terms of our contract.
