Ingram Micro Announces Departure Of CIO Mario Leone

SANTA ANA, Calif., Jan. 23, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Ingram Micro Inc. (NYSE: IM), the world's largest technology distributor and a global leader in IT supply-chain, mobile device lifecycle services and logistics solutions, today announced that executive vice president and chief information officer Mario Leone will be leaving the company. The company will conduct a search for a successor. In the interim, Nimesh Dave, Ingram Micro executive vice president, global business process and cloud computing, will immediately assume responsibility and oversight of the company's worldwide information and business systems. Leone will remain at Ingram Micro through March 1, 2013, to assist in the orderly transition of his responsibilities.

Ingram Micro chief operating and financial officer Bill Humes said, "We thank Mario for his hard work at Ingram Micro over the past four years, during which substantial changes to the company's information systems have been launched. We wish Mario the best in his next endeavor."
