2014 Operational Financial Commentary:

- The increase in product sales was attributable to growing sales of the Company's M100 Smart Glass products and its M2000AR waveguide monocular. Sales of these products in 2014 were up 312% over 2013.
- Offsetting the increase in M100 was the planned phasing out of the Company's older Wrap product family which was in short supply in the second half of 2014, with sales of our Wrap 1200 series down 45% as compared to 2013.
- Gross Margins decreased to 31% as compared to 34% for the period ended December 31, 2013. Average 2014 product gross margins actually increased but were negatively affected by a total of 4.7% due to the start-up of manufacturing the M100 in China and the commencement of software development cost amortization included in cost of sales for the 2014 year as compared to Nil for these expenses for same period in 2013.
- Sales and marketing costs increased in 2014 versus 2013 due to higher personnel salary and travel costs.
- Overall research and development costs expensed for 2014 were up modestly over 2013, however the Company capitalized $618,790 of its development costs as Software Development versus $240,561 for the same period in 2013.

- General and administrative expenses increased primarily due to higher stock compensation costs, external director fees, and increased investor relations activities in 2014 as compared to 2013.
- Other income and expense for the 2014 period was ($2,836,526), a reduction from the ($5,493,671) in 2013. The decrease was the result a $1,381,277 reduction in the derivative liability mark-to-market for 2014 as compared to 2013 and the $1,272,296 loss on debt extinguishments in 2013 related to our August 2013 public offering.
- Total non-cash expenses for the year ending December 31, 2014 were $3,696,681 versus $5,561,688.

2014 Year End Financial Summary

Vuzix CEO and President Paul J. Travers said, "This has been a monumental year for Vuzix both financially and operationally. It began with the launch of our M100 Smart Glasses and upgrades to our products. Through improving our operations, and better revenue generation we closed out a very active fourth quarter that saw the launch of our App Store on our website, the feature of our M100 Smart Glasses on Amazon.com, and the certification and release of our Smart Glasses sold in China with our partner Lenovo. Our I.Wear 720 was named a 2015 CES Innovation Awards Honoree, and we won 4 awards, making this a total of 20 CES Awards over 11 consecutive years. We were also very active in working with our key partners and various companies to develop apps for our Smart Glasses that add value and solutions for our enterprise customers. We strengthened our relationship with software giant SAP with the demonstration of three enterprise applications for the M100 Smart Glasses over the last quarter."

Mr. Travers continued, "From a corporate development, product development and capital structure standpoint, Vuzix is being transformed. We are now building momentum and seeing traction from existing and new relationships that take us from being a small developer and testing sales, to now operating larger enterprise level transactions. We believe we are strongly positioned for 2015 as sales of the M100 Smart Glasses have been building and we look to launch sales of the award-winning I.Wear 720720 Mobile Gaming Platform in the third quarter which will lead to an additional revenue stream in the consumer market. In looking ahead, our long-term approach will be to stay ahead of the curve by listening and responding to the needs of our customers and the marketplace and focusing on pushing sales in 2015 as we now have production capacity for growth."
