LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)--July 31, 2006--Salem Communications (Nasdaq:SALM), a leading U.S. radio broadcaster, Internet content provider and magazine publisher targeting audiences interested in Christian and family-themed content and conservative values, announced that Christopher J. Henderson has been named vice president of human resources effective today.

Commenting on Henderson's appointment, Joe D. Davis, executive vice president and chief operating officer, said, "Chris Henderson's background as Salem's corporate counsel combined with his private practice experience in labor relations and his five and a half years with Salem brings a new level of expertise to our human resources team. Chris will be warmly received by our various business units across the United States."

An attorney with Salem since 2001, Henderson was named vice president and corporate counsel earlier this year. Prior to joining Salem, Henderson worked for 13 years as senior associate attorney for Cooksey, Toolen, Gage, Duffy & Woog, an Orange County, Calif., law firm where he both mediated and litigated many labor relations and employee-employer issues.

Henderson has practiced law for more than 18 years and has received an "AV" rating by Martindale. He graduated in 1985 from Arizona State University and received his Juris Doctorate from the University of San Diego in 1988. Henderson is a member of the American Bar Association, the Southern and Central U.S. District Courts, the Association of Corporate Counsel and the California Bar. He serves on the national board of Community Bible Study, a National bible study ministry and co-chairs the operations board at Calvary Community Church in Westlake Village, Calif.
