Microchip Technology Announces Launch of Offering of Depositary Shares Representing Interests in Series A Mandatory Convertible Preferred Stock

CHANDLER, Ariz., March 19, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- (NASDAQ: MCHP) Microchip Technology Incorporated ("Microchip" or the "Company"), a leading provider of smart, connected, and secure embedded control solutions, today announced the launch of an underwritten public offering (the "offering") of $1.35 billion of depositary shares ("depositary shares"), each representing a 1/20th interest in a share of newly issued Series A Mandatory Convertible Preferred Stock, par value $0.001 per share ("preferred stock"), of the Company. Microchip expects to grant the underwriters of the offering a 13-day option to purchase up to an additional $135 million of depositary shares, solely to cover over-allotments, if any. Microchip intends to use a portion of the net proceeds from the offering to pay the cost of the capped call transactions described below. If the underwriters exercise their option to purchase additional depositary shares, Microchip expects to use a portion of the net proceeds from the sale of such additional depositary shares to enter into additional capped call transactions. Microchip intends to use the remaining net proceeds to repay existing debt, including notes outstanding under its commercial paper program.

J.P. Morgan, BofA Securities and BNP Paribas are acting as lead joint bookrunning managers for the offering. J. Wood Capital Advisors is acting as Microchip's financial advisor for the offering.

Holders of the depositary shares will be entitled to a proportional fractional interest in the rights and preferences of the preferred stock, including conversion, dividend, liquidation and voting rights, subject to the provisions of a deposit agreement. The preferred stock is expected to have a liquidation preference of $1,000 per share. Unless earlier converted, each share of preferred stock will automatically convert, for settlement on or about March 15, 2028, into a variable number of shares of the Company's common stock, par value $0.001 per share (the "common stock"), based on the applicable conversion rate, and each depositary share will automatically convert into a number of shares of common stock equal to a proportionate fractional interest in such shares of common stock. The dividend rate, conversion terms and other terms of the preferred stock will be determined at the time of pricing of the offering of the depositary shares. Currently, there is no public market for the depositary shares or the preferred stock. Microchip intends to apply to list the depositary shares on The Nasdaq Global Select Market under the symbol "MCHPP."

In connection with the pricing of the depositary shares, Microchip expects to enter into privately negotiated capped call transactions with one or more of the underwriters or their respective affiliates and/or other financial institutions (the "option counterparties"). The capped call transactions will cover, subject to customary anti-dilution adjustments, the number of shares of common stock underlying the preferred stock sold in the offering, based on the minimum conversion rate of the preferred stock. The capped call transactions are generally expected to reduce or offset potential dilution to the common stock upon conversion of the preferred stock, with such reduction subject to a cap. If the underwriters exercise their option to purchase additional depositary shares, Microchip expects to enter into additional capped call transactions with the option counterparties.

Microchip has been advised that, in connection with establishing their initial hedges of the capped call transactions, the option counterparties or their respective affiliates expect to enter into various derivative transactions with respect to the common stock concurrently with or shortly after the pricing of the depositary shares. These activities could increase (or reduce the size of any decrease in) the market price of the common stock or the depositary shares at that time. In addition, Microchip has been advised that the option counterparties or their respective affiliates may modify their hedge positions by entering into or unwinding various derivative transactions with respect to the common stock and/or purchasing or selling the common stock or other securities of Microchip in secondary market transactions following the pricing of the depositary shares and prior to the mandatory conversion date of the preferred stock (and are likely to do so during the final averaging period relating to the mandatory conversion of the preferred stock and, to the extent Microchip unwinds a corresponding portion of the capped call transactions, following any early conversion of the preferred stock or repurchase of the depositary shares). This activity could also cause or avoid an increase or a decrease in the market price of the common stock or the depositary shares and could affect the value of the shares of common stock that holders will receive upon conversion of the preferred stock and, to the extent the activity occurs during the final averaging period relating to the mandatory conversion of the preferred stock, it could also affect the number of shares of common stock that holders will receive upon conversion.
