

Ingram Micro Commerce & Lifecycle Services Singled Out by Gartner as Visionary in 2019 Magic Quadrant Report for Third-Party Logistics, North America

IRVINE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ingram Micro Commerce & Lifecycle Services announced today that it was singled out as the only Visionary Third-Party Logistics business in Gartner's recent industry report: 2019 Magic Quadrant for Third-Party Logistics, North America. Gartner's highly-anticipated biannual report evaluates third-party logistics providers conducting significant business in the U.S., Canada and Mexico. Ingram Micro Commerce & Lifecycle Services first appeared in the Magic Quadrant four years ago and over time has continued to demonstrate its commitment to developing innovative solutions for its customers across a range of industries.

The report highlights Ingram Micro's vast North American footprint, as well as strengths that include:

- Ingram Micro's ability to reach 93% of the U.S. population within two days via ground transportation;
- The company's specialized B2B and B2C commerce solutions; and
- Ingram Micro's inventory and order management, order fulfillment, reverse logistics and value-added supply chain services, including complex repair and refurbish capabilities.

"Ingram Micro Commerce & Lifecycle Services is honored to once again be recognized by Gartner in this influential Third-Party Logistics report, moving up to the Visionary Quadrant for 2019," said Glen Sutton, senior vice president, Americas. "Innovating, influencing the industry and anticipating our customers' needs are among our top priorities in providing a true end-to-end circular supply chain and a superior customer experience."

According to Gartner, "Visionaries display process, technological or business model innovation, and are influencing [...] the direction of the logistics industry.[†]" Through its focus on serving the evolving needs of the retail and technology industries via full lifecycle solutions that include forecasting, Planning as a Service or demand planning, distributed order management, reverse-logistics, repair and refurbishment, Ingram Micro enables customers to compete successfully in an increasingly complex omnichannel environment.
