Marijuana Company of America Inc.'s CEO, Jesus Quintero, Answers Shareholder Questions and Provides Operational Update in New Interview

AUSTIN, Texas, April 20, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SmallCapVoice.com, Inc. ("SCV") today announced the availability of a new interview with the Jesus Quintero, CEO of Marijuana Company of America Inc. ("MCOA" or the "Company") (OTC: MCOA), an innovative hemp corporation. Quintero answers shareholder questions that were submitted on the MCOA social media sites.

Topics covered on the call included how MCOA will profit from efforts led by Cannabis Global, Inc. (OTC: CBGL) and Eco Innovation Group, Inc. (OTC: ECOX), several topics related to MCOA's market value, where MCOA is at regarding a potential up-list to a higher exchange, what are plans for getting products into new states/countries as legalization continues to grow, and much more.

While answering investor questions, Quintero tells Smith, "Our 2020 sales revenue was impacted by the global pandemic, but in 2021 we have shifted to our new eCommerce platform. This transition involved the rebranding of our products, utilizing our social media platforms to reach new markets, as well as introducing some new intangibles that are not being used by any of our competitors."

Regarding the work being done with ECOX and CBGL, Quintero says, "From the shareholder perspective you have to look beyond just the share exchange. In reality there is so much more to these strategic relationships. CBGL has several high-tech products, formulated beverages and innovations that MCOA can leverage and assist with along with numerous patents and extensive R&D. CBGL also has a controlling 56.5% interest in Natural Plant Extracts of California, a cannabis manufacturing and distribution plant in Lynwood, CA, that MCOA invested in two years ago. In terms of ECOX, they are a strong partner working with inventors and new inventions mostly surrounding green technology like their work with specialized supercritical extraction technology. We are three very impactful businesses that are made that much stronger by the work we will do together."
