Elizabeth Moellering Named General Counsel and Corporate Secretary of Maximus

Moellering has served as interim general counsel since February 2026

TYSONS, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Maximus (NYSE: MMS), a leading provider of tech-enabled government services, today announced Elizabeth Moellering as the company's new General Counsel and Corporate Secretary. In this role, she succeeds John Martinez, who departed the company earlier this year.

Since February of this year, Moellering has served as Interim General Counsel and Deputy General Counsel. She originally joined Maximus in 2024 as Head of Litigation, where she built a new, disciplined structure for managing legal disputes before taking on additional responsibilities.

"The role of General Counsel is important to helping Maximus fulfill our mission assisting governments in the delivery of essential citizen programs," said Bruce Caswell, President and Chief Executive Officer, Maximus. "I am excited that Elizabeth has accepted this new role serving on our executive team. As we've worked together over the past few years, she has demonstrated strong judgment, collaborative leadership, and served as a trusted partner across our business."

Prior to joining Maximus, Moellering handled complex litigation and investigations at Optum, served as a federal prosecutor focused on white-collar matters and child victim offenses, and practiced as a litigation associate at Skadden Arps. Her proven track record, deep legal expertise, and the strong relationships she has built across the legal team and the enterprise make her the right leader to serve as General Counsel at this time.

"I'm honored to lead the Maximus legal team at a pivotal time for government services," said Moellering. "The accelerating adoption of AI and digital innovation is creating new opportunities to help our partners deliver better outcomes—more efficiently and at greater scale—for the millions of citizens they serve. With 50 years of excellence behind us, I'm excited to help Maximus advance our mission and accelerate what's next."
