NEW YORK, Aug. 31, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- SiriusXM today announced its exclusive programming in celebration of the Labor Day holiday which will include an extensive lineup spanning its commercial-free music, plus sports, comedy and entertainment programming channels.

Beginning Friday, September 4 and airing throughout the holiday weekend, SiriusXM subscribers can enjoy special editions of SiriusXM's "Town Hall" series, broadcasts of concerts and performances, live broadcasts of DJ sets, broadcasts of football, soccer, and baseball games and more.

The full-lineup of SiriusXM's Labor Day programming and complete broadcast times are available at www.siriusxm.com/laborday.

Labor Day holiday programming highlights include:

HOWARD STERN

Howard 101: Will air a three weekend-long event, "Booey 25," celebrating the 25th anniversary of the word "Baba Booey." The three weekend-long radio event will feature audio of the word's first utterance, then 25 years of now-legendary Baba Booey and Gary Dell'Abate moments from the Howard Stern Show.

Howard 100: On Labor Day, Howard Stern's channel "Howard 100" will play nothing but "Baba Booey" parody songs, lovingly created by fans and Stern staff over decades.

ENTERTAINMENT

SiriusXM Comedy Greats (channel 94): Marking the one year anniversary of Joan Rivers' passing, SiriusXM's Comedy Greats will replay "Remembering Joan Rivers," the 3-hour special hosted by Ron Bennington featuring comedians looking back on their favorite memories of Joan.
