- Cheryl Beranek, President & CEO of Clearfield

"Revenue growth of more than 25% resulted in a record third quarter for the company. What's more, revenue growth for our competitive local exchange carrier (CLEC) group outpaced the rest of the company, achieving a growth rate of 37% for the quarter. A strong gain in gross margin resulted in achievement of gross margin percentage of 42.8% for the third quarter. As outlined last quarter, this rebound in gross margin percentage was expected and exceeded our target zone."

"While early in its lifecycle, the FieldSmart Makwa fiber distribution hub is shipping. The industry's first and only FDH optimized for both above and below grade deployment is changing the landscape of the OSP network. We are excited to be showcasing this product to service providers planning some of the industry's largest FTTH deployments."

"FieldShield pushable fiber continues among our fastest growing product line. Unlike airblown-fiber, pushable fiber does not require significant investment in expensive blowing equipment. Service providers that we are working with are utilizing the product for not only last mile drop solutions within FTTH projects, but also within the wireless markets as a backhaul solution."

"We are several years into the extensive product testing process for Telcordia certification. Most of those tests for the termination of optical cable types and connector types are complete, but ongoing verification will be a continual process. In addition to the third-party work that we have done to-date, positive feedback on the quality and need for our product lines from our target service provider customers has prompted us to expand our investment into on-site test labs moving forward."

"We believe the revenue rate of growth experienced this quarter as compared to the prior year third quarter will climb in the fourth quarter. The increase in backlog as of June 30, 2015 as well as recent bookings and revenue indications received from both of the incumbent local exchange carrier (ILEC) and CLEC customer groups supports Clearfield's outlook of a strong fourth quarter. However, due to the nature of our build-to-order business as well as our industry-leading short lead-times, a more definitive outlook for the year will not be issued."

Forward-looking statements contained herein and in the FieldReport are made pursuant to the safe harbor provisions of the Private Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as "may," "will," "expect," "believe," "anticipate," "estimate," "outlook," or "continue" or comparable terminology are intended to identify forward-looking statements. Such forward looking statements include, for example, statements about the Company's future revenue and operating performance, growth of the FTTH market, effectiveness of the Company's sales and marketing strategies and organization, utilization of manufacturing capacity, and the development and marketing of products. These statements are based upon the Company's current expectations and judgments about future developments in the Company's business. Certain important factors could have a material impact on the Company's performance, including, without limitation: our results of operations could be adversely affected now that the stimulus funds of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act are fully allocated and projections are nearing completion; National Broadband Plan's transitioning from the USF to the CAF program may cause our customers and prospective customers to delay or reduce purchases; a significant percentage of our sales in the last two fiscal years have been made to a small number of customers, and the loss of these major customers would adversely affect us; intense competition in our industry may result in price reductions, lower gross profits and loss of market share; our results of operations could be adversely affected by economic conditions and the effects of these conditions on our customers' businesses; our operating results may fluctuate significantly from quarter to quarter, which may make budgeting for expenses difficult and may negatively affect the market price of our common stock; to compete effectively, we must continually improve existing products and introduce new products that achieve market acceptance; we may face circumstances in the future that will result in impairment charges, including, but not limited to, significant goodwill impairment charges; we rely on single-source suppliers, which could cause delays, increases in costs or prevent us from completing customer orders, all of which could materially harm our business; our success depends upon adequate protection of our patent and intellectual property rights; further consolidation among our customers may result in the loss of some customers and may reduce sales during the pendency of business combinations and related integration activities; we are dependent on key personnel; product defects or the failure of our products to meet specifications could cause us to lose customers and sales or to incur unexpected expenses; and we face risks associated with expanding our sales outside of the United States; and other factors set forth in Clearfield's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended September 30, 2014 as well as other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Company undertakes no obligation to update these statements to reflect actual events.
