Geologix Partners With Blue Eagle Lithium to Identify Strategic Green Energy Metal Resources

HOUSTON, March 25, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Geologix Limited announces that it has secured a contract with Blue Eagle Lithium Inc. (OTCQB: BEAG) to provide a fully integrated asset management (IAM) system for its activities in both conventional brine and Petro-Lithium extraction.

Blue Eagle is a Lithium exploration company engaged in identifying, evaluating, and developing early-stage Lithium and rare earth metal exploration opportunities in North America. The Company's initial property is located in Railroad Valley, Nevada, a highly prospective green-fields Lithium brine target area that features many similarities to the nearby prolific Clayton Valley. Recent soil samples demonstrate encouraging concentrations, and the results have been included in the company's NI 43-101 Report.

This contract represents a desire by Geologix to take its best-in-class services to a wider audience. The Company's market-leading software, designed with the user at the forefront, is adaptable and scalable across all extractive industries. Geologix has historically supplied its software to a number of U.S. Oil and Gas companies, as well as the Minerals Management Service Federal agency.
