Bank of America Stadium Readies for 2026 Charlotte FC Season with Evolv Technology

The multi-year renewal announced today upgrades the fleet of nearly twenty Express systems to the latest Gen2 hardware and brings enhanced bag screening capability to the venue with the inclusion of Evolv eXpedite™ systems. eXpedite is Evolv's autonomous weapons detection solution for bags and is intended as a complement to Express in situations where venue entrants carry high clutter bags. All the new hardware will be deployed in time for Charlotte FC's home opener on March 7, 2026.

"The Evolv systems have enabled significant improvements in our security screening and guest arrival experience," said Bonnie Almond, Vice President of Venue Operations at Tepper Sports & Entertainment, the company that owns Bank of America Stadium and the two professional teams that call it home. "After seeing the Gen2 hardware firsthand last summer at international soccer matches in our building, we were pleased to have an opportunity to update our fleet in time for the 2026 MLS season. The update is part of our commitment to deliver a great event experience for the millions of fans that visit Bank of America Stadium each year."

"We're very excited to renew our partnership with Bank of America Stadium," noted John Baier, Evolv Vice President of Sports & Entertainment. "We're especially pleased to bring eXpedite to the stadium, as an increasing number of our customers see real benefit in pairing Express with eXpedite for an even more efficient entry experience for guests and staff with large bags."

With this renewal, Evolv's professional sports customer count stands at 13 in professional football and 14 in professional soccer in the United States. These organizations are among the more than 100 sports and entertainment venues in Evolv's customer roster. Evolv screens over three million people each day to help make experiences safer and more enjoyable.
