These appointments provide additional infrastructure and expertise to support the growth and development of Janus's rapidly expanding Nokē business unit. Nokē is a state-of-the-art smart access control technology that meets the demands and expectations of today's highly mobile consumers, providing tenants with 24 hour access self-storage facilities and individual units with the touch of a button on their phone, the ability to easily share mobile keys, and enhanced safety through remote monitoring. The product similarly enables operators to enhance profits by upgrading security and convenience, fully automating the move-in process, and enabling additional technologies like thermal imaging and fire sensing.

"As we work to execute on our strategic objectives and continue to generate strong organic growth, assembling a first-class team to accelerate the development and delivery of an industry-changing product to our customers represents an essential element of our preparations for operating as a public company," Ramey Jackson, Chief Executive Officer of Janus, commented. "The self-storage industry is rapidly increasing its adoption of our technology – by the end of this week, over 400 sites will have installed and integrated our Nokē solutions.

"Our Nokē business faces the opportunity to penetrate what we believe is an approximately $4 billion market, and in Christine and Terry, we have assembled the best team to help Nokē capitalize on its enormous potential. Christine and Terry are proven executives with significant technology, sales and marketing experience and a nuanced understanding of our industry and partners, and are well positioned to both elevate our smart access control business and support Janus's growth," Mr. Jackson added.

As President of NSE, Ms. DeBord will focus on the continued growth and development of the Nokē division. Ms. DeBord has been working with self-storage access control and new technology since 2016 and possesses extensive experience as a marketing and sales leader, positioning her well to drive continued growth in the business unit.

As President of Industry & Partner Relationships for Janus, Mr. Bagley will foster relationships with industry technology partners, identify strategic M&A opportunities, cultivate international business development, and help Janus cultivate and expand relationships with institutional customers. Mr. Bagley possesses over two decades of experience in the storage industry; prior to joining Janus as Vice President of Business Development in 2015, Mr. Bagley served as President and CEO of self-storage software company Centershift Inc. He is additionally a former board member for the national Self Storage Association, serving two terms.

Janus expects to complete its business combination with Juniper Industrial Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: JIH) and become a publicly listed company in the second quarter of 2021. Clearlake, an investment firm, is the largest shareholder in Janus.
