Relmada Therapeutics Files Amended Complaint Against Laidlaw and Its Principals, Matthew Eitner and James Ahern

NEW YORK, Sept. 14, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Relmada Therapeutics, Inc. (OTCQB: RLMD), a clinical-stage company developing novel therapies for the treatment of central nervous system (CNS) diseases, today announced that it has filed a motion to amend its amended complaint against Laidlaw & Company (UK) Ltd. ("Laidlaw") in the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada. The motion to file a second amended complaint is part of the lawsuit that the Company had previously filed in the Nevada District Court. The proposed second amended complaint, dated September 6, 2016 (the "Proposed Second Amended Complaint") alleges additional claims against the Defendants, including defamation/business disparagement, defamation per se, tortious interference with prospective economic advantage, violations of sections 1962(c) and 1962(d) of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, and violation of Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b-5 thereunder. Relmada believes that it has incurred substantial damages from Defendants' actions, which are addressed in the Proposed Second Amended Complaint.

Relmada noted that the Nevada court previously issued a temporary restraining order and associated injunction against Laidlaw and its principals, Matthew Eitner and James Ahern, as a result of their dissemination of false and misleading proxy materials. Relmada's Board believes Laidlaw must compensate the Company for the damages it has suffered as a result of Laidlaw's actions, and that Laidlaw must be prevented from harming the Company in the future.

A copy of the Proposed Second Amended Complaints is attached as Exhibit 99.1 to the Company's recent Form 8-K.
