

Ameresco Employee Awarded Member of the Order of the British Empire for Leadership in Sustainable Energy

Mark Apsey honored for his contributions in the fields of sustainability and energy efficiency in the Queen of England's New Year Honours

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. & LONDON--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ameresco, Inc., (NYSE: AMRC), a leading energy efficiency and renewable energy company, today announced that Mark Apsey, Managing Director in its London office, was awarded a Member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE) in the New Year Honours List 2020 for his demonstrated leadership in sustainable energy.

MBEs are awarded to individuals who are making a difference in their industry. At Ameresco, Apsey works on energy performance contracting and renewable energy projects. A chemical engineer by training, Apsey is also chairman of the Energy Centre Board for the Institution of Chemical Engineers.

"I am deeply honoured to have received this award," said Apsey. "I have had the privilege of working with many organisations and individuals over the years that have helped begin the work towards making our world a cleaner, greener place to live. There is still much more we can do when it comes to sustainability in the UK and worldwide and I'm inspired to continue this work with urgency."

"The entire Ameresco UK team is incredibly proud of Mark for receiving this honor," said Britta MacIntosh, Vice President of UK Operations at Ameresco. "He is committed to making a positive environmental impact through his work, and his successes demonstrate that he is so deserving of this recognition."

Prior to joining Ameresco in 2014, Apsey worked in a variety of engineering leadership roles for companies including EnergyExcel, Atkins and GlaxoSmithKline. A resident of Sussex, England, Apsey is a graduate of the University of Exeter, where he earned his Master of Engineering degree in Chemical and Process Engineering.
