Professional Diversity Network Teams with the NAACP to Host Diversity Career Fair Events

More than 20 Events Slated for 2016

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., Jan. 13, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Professional Diversity Network (PDN), the leading resource for helping corporations reach their diversity goals, will present a series of Diversity Career Fair events across the country throughout the year. Each event will be held in partnership with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and is designed to help employers identify and connect with diverse candidates for employment.

"At PDN, we know having a diverse workforce is a key factor in a company's overall success," said PDN President Star Jones. "We had more than 20 highly successful Diversity Career Fair events in 2015 that helped match employers in both the public and private sectors with strong, qualified diverse candidates, and we plan to duplicate that effort this year."

The slate kicks off with the 25th Anniversary Martin Luther King Jr. Holiday Diversity Career Fair in Minneapolis on January 18. Aside from being a dedicated civil rights advocate, Dr. King believed in equal opportunity for all. A Diversity Career Fair in his name keeps his legacy alive.

Each event is free to the general public. Several of the Diversity Career Fairs feature a Professional Networking Event (PNE) sponsored by the National Association of Professional Women (NAPW). The PNEs are exclusively for NAPW members. Ms. Jones, who is also President of NAPW, will attend the Career Fair and PNE events. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet other NAPW members, learn about VIP members' products and services, and get the latest updates from Ms. Jones.
