Rollins, Inc. Announces Executive Promotions

ATLANTA, Jan. 25 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Rollins, Inc., a nationwide consumer services company (NYSE: ROL), announced today the promotion of Gene Iarocci to vice president of Corporate Administration. Additionally, the Company announced the promotion of Freeman Elliott to vice president of Orkin's Atlantic Division and the addition of Greg Clendenin as president of Orkin's Southeast Division. Orkin is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Rollins.

"Our employees have made Rollins the leader in the pest control industry," said Gary W. Rollins, president and CEO of Rollins. "The leadership of these three individuals will allow us to continue to execute our business plans, expand our company and provide our customers with extraordinary pest control service."

Iarocci has more than 20 years experience in multi-unit management with a number of service and manufacturing industries, including Union Carbide Corporation where he worked for 24 years. He has been with Orkin for seven years, serving most recently as president of Orkin's Atlantic Division before his promotion to vice president of Rollins' Corporate Administration.

Elliott began his Orkin career as a lawn care technician in 1991, following graduation from the University of Georgia. He quickly moved through the Company, working as service manager, branch manager, national service manager and most recently, assistant to the president of Orkin's Atlantic Division. In his new role, Elliott will oversee approximately 70 locations in Orkin's Atlantic Division.

Clendenin joins Orkin with 30 years of pest control industry experience. Most recently, he was president and CEO for Middleton Lawn and Pest Control and before that, COO of Sears Authorized Termite & Pest Control. Clendenin is a highly respected industry leader and will oversee 63 locations in Orkin's Southeast Division.
